LOGAN ELM DISPUTE CONTINUES

BOGGS FAMILY PLANS APPEAL TO SOCIETIES

Former Owners Of Property Say Sentiment Gone

Officials of the Ohio Archeological and Historical society maintain their hope for an amicable settlement of the dispute surrounding removal of the Boggs family monument from a mound, later destroyed, in Logan Elm state park. This expression was learned Thursday after Frank Fischer, superintendent of Circleville schools, visited H. R. McPherson, curator of state parks and conferred with him. Edward Sinclair Thomas, noted Ohio historian. Mr. McPherson, whose order removed the mound and its monument, told Mr. Fischer he was willing to confer with any member of the Boggs family in an effort to right the condition. "No desecration of the park was meant," Mr. McPherson said, "in the order to remove the monument and place it at another location. The mound obstructed a certain view of the Logan Elm and we believed, after considerable study, that a new location would benefit the entire park."

Was It Indian Mound?
"We had no knowledge the mound holding the family monument might have been an Indian mound as claimed," the curator stated. "If, after further investigation, we learn the mound was built by the Indians we will replace it. However, if such is the case no monument, regardless of its historic value, should be placed on it."

Several residents of Pickaway township insist the mound was not built by Indians. Mr. McPherson expects a decision next week when H. C. Shetrone director of the society, returns after his vacation in Wisconsin.

The Boggs family is not satisfied with Mr. McPherson's statement that the monument will be moved not more than 10 feet from its original site. Mrs. John Boggs, W. Union street, wife of one of the descendants of the Pickaway township family which owned the land on which the Elm stands before transferring it to the state, said that removal of the monument even one foot from its former location erases all history surrounding it. "The monument was on the site of the old Boggs cabin," she said, "and to move it wipes

Three Villages in Path of Wild Forest Fires in Northern Region

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Fires raced through the forests of northern Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan toward smoke-choked settlements where park and conservation officials mustered fresh battalions of volunteers and recruits to check their advance. One major blaze leaped fire lines and spread faster than a man could run toward the villages of Bassett, Tolmi and Fairbanks, in northern Minnesota. Observers said it was out of control. Blazing virgin timber ringed the Chippewa harbor settlement on Isle Royale in Lake Superior. Coast guard cutters and private vessels stood off shore ready to remove resortists and fishermen as the flames advanced within a half mile of their homes.

50,000 Men Used

Nearly 50,000 men fought the fires. Minnesota officers sent 20,000 into the Superior National Forest north of Duluth to try and control the fire there. Wisconsin officials, fearing spread of the Minnesota fires into the Bayfield-Superior district, maintained 15,000 fire fighters and scouts in the backwoods wilderness. With 2,000 men and youths already at the Isle Royale fire front, the National Park service appealed to state officers for more experienced help. Several thousand more patrolled partially-controlled fires in other sections of upper Michigan.

Scattered showers brought only short respite yesterday. A few hours after it was announced that all fires were under control, the forests dried out again. Wind carried sparks from the smoldering fire areas over ditches and artificially burned fire-lanes into new districts. Lightning which accompanied the rain started scores of smaller blazes.

Virgin pine and hardwoods and less valuable second growth, paper-dry after months of drought literally exploded as stiffening winds dropped burning brands in their branches. Heat of the fires was so intense that workers could not approach close enough to combat them effectively.

Peat Burns Feet

Peat in marshes burned several feet below the surface, defying the feeble sprays of hand-pumps and burning too deep for effective ditch-digging. Heat of the peat fires burned the feet of fire-fighters, and the choking ammonia-like fumes turned them back hundreds of yards from the blazes.

Only four or five inches of rain, lasting over three or four days, will extinguish the fires, Wisconsin conservation officers said.

Smoke from burning and smoldering fire settled over villages and Wisconsin officials warned of increased dangers of night driving along highways in the fire district. Smoke over Isle Royale defeated efforts to spot key points in the fires there from airplanes. Heavy clouds which drifted over Lake Superior made navigation difficult between the island and the mainland.

Adelia Hartley, Paul Thompson Healthiest

Pickaway county's healthiest 4-H club members are Miss Adelia Hartley, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hartley, Walnut township, and Paul Thompson, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Thompson, Jackson township.

They won their titles Wednesday afternoon in the county health contest.

Second places were won by Juanita Skinner, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Skinner, Atlanta, and Edwin Swoyer, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Swoyer, Ashville.

Miss Hartley and Mr. Thompson will represent Pickaway county clubs in the state fair health contest.

Miss Hartley is a member of the Walnut township Magic Sewing club, Miss Skinner the Atlanta Campfire Cookery club, Mr. Thompson the Jackson Campfire Cookery club, and Mr. Swoyer the Duvall Go-Getters Livestock club.

Three boys and nine girls took part in the county contest, Dr. E. L. Montgomery was the examining physician.

REBEL COLUMNS ON COAST CITIES START CAMPAIGN

TOLOSA, Spain, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Picked rebel columns, comprised of men trained in mountain fighting, began a desperate drive for San Sebastian and the sea today, hoping to cut loyalist communication to the west before the fall of Oviedo.

One column, after consolidating its capture of Tolosa, advanced another five miles to Villabona, on the highway only 11 miles south of San Sebastian.

It started fighting its way today along a line beside the Iezar-an river.

A second column closed in on Gyarzun, seven miles southeast of San Sebastian.

Rebel column leaders hope that they can take San Sebastian this weekend.

Flying columns from these bases, if the rebel strategy works out, will cut the loyalist communication to Bilbao, Santander and Oviedo.

Knight to Place Severe Conditions on Control Of Mary's Daughter

SETTLEMENT IS REACHED

Court Insists Magnates Did Not Use Pressure

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13.—(UP)

Judge Goodwin Knight will impose severe conditions today on Mary Astor and Dr. Franklyn Thorpe in granting them joint control of their four-year-old daughter. His intent will be to "sew up" the sensational litigation between the film star and her divorced husband so that it can never be reopened.

Judge Knight made this statement of his plans in revealing that he would take charge of Miss Astor's rhapsodic diary, in which she confessed an extra-marital love for George S. Kaufman, famous playwright. The disposition of the diary will be known only to Dr. Thorpe, Miss Astor and the court, but it was understood that Judge Knight would impose it in such a way that it can do no further damage to Miss Astor and be of no further assistance to her former husband.

Judge to Take Diary

Judge Knight told the United Press that when court convenes at 1 p. m. EST, he will instruct John Anderson, Dr. Thorpe's attorney, to hand him the diary forthwith. He said he would recess court to read "every word in the diary."

He will reconvene court, he said, and summon Miss Astor, Dr. Thorpe, and their attorneys before him to hear a reading of a written memorandum governing the custody of Marilyn Thorpe.

"My primary interests are for the child," he said, "when the agreement drawn up between the

The adjournment was made at the request of Herbert S. and Thomas J. Duffy, Columbus attorneys representing the Anton Bros. Heretofore Duffy is Democratic nominee for attorney general.

John, Tony and George Anton, in cross petitions, ask $1,000 each as damages.

The case resulted from an automobile and track collision three miles north of Circleville on Route 23 last Sept. 15. Mrs. Williams sued for injuries.

ROOSEVELT AND HIS AIDES CITE HIGHER REVENUE

Decision Follows Confab In White House With Letter Disclosed

BUDGET TALK ASSAILED

Fairness To All Consumers Stressed by Leaders

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Administration tax experts decided at conference with President Roosevelt today that no new taxes will be necessary next session because of increasing revenues.

The gesture to answer business criticism of an unbalanced budget came after a meeting attended by Chairman Pat Harrison of the senate finance committee, Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., and Chairman Robert L. Doughton of the house ways and means committee.

"We have found business conditions improving so much and revenue receipts coming in so fast," said Harrison, "that we can reach the point of a balanced budget sooner than expected."

No Boosts Needed

A letter to the president from Secretary Morgenthau was made public at the same time which said the treasury had concluded that no new taxes or increases in present tax rates are necessary.

It was agreed that tax changes at the next session will be limited to the purpose, according to Morgenthau's letter, "of removing any inequities" in present tax laws and modifying or ending taxes that "create unfairness to consumers or to trade or have other disadvantages which outweigh the revenue yield."

"With continued recovery," Morgenthau's letter said, "we are steadily approaching a revenue yield which will be entirely adequate to cover the expenditures of government and to reduce the public debt."

However, none of the three tax experts would predict when a balanced budget would be reached.

Harrison announced he will immediately call congressional tax experts into session to work with treasury experts to carry out the suggestions of Morgenthau.

"Any change of course, would probably be toward reducing some taxes," he said, citing especially "taxes where administrative cost virtually wipes out revenue."

WAGE INCREASE FOR TOLEDO GAS WORKERS LOOMS

TOLEDO, Aug. 13.—(UP)—With a 25 percentage wage increase the only point blocking settlement of the gas strike, gas company representatives and employees were to meet today with the Toledo Industrial Peace Board for another conference.

Members of the gas employees' union voted two to one last night against acceptance of an accord reached by company representatives and union officials which met most of the union demands.

Robert Pierce, president of the employees' union, said emergency crews would be permitted to continue at their posts, assuring the city of service for an unspecified length of time. He added that picketing would be resumed.

by motion picture interests to end the case," Judge Knight said. "Any 'high pressing' was placed on the principals involved, not the court."

Disposition Solved

Miss Astor did not wish the diary to remain in her former husband's hands, lest it be used against her again.

Asked if he was happy with the compromise, Dr. Thorpe replied: "No, I'm not happy. How could I be happy? I'm glad, however, that this litigation has been stopped."

"All I can say is that I'm relieved," Miss Astor said.

The settlement of the custody case was expected to result in settlement of the other litigation resulting from their divorce in April, 1935.

FARMERS OBTAIN $138 FROM $331 SPENT FOR FOOD

COLUMBUS, Aug. 13.—Farmers in the United States received $138 out of the $331 spent in 1935 by the average working man in the city for a list of 58 foods, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Washington, D. C.

The difference between the money spent by the workingman for food and that received by its producer is the cost of transportation, processing, and distribution. In 1933, the workingman spent $264 for these foods and the farmer received 92 of that amount.

City consumers spent larger sums of money for these quantities of the 58 foods in 14 of the years in the period 1913-35 than they did in 1935. Farmers received about equal amounts from the consumers expenditures for food in 1935 and in 1913. Retail prices were somewhat higher last year, but a portion of that increase is due to the greater amount of processing after the food leaves the farm than was customary in 1913.

WINANT TO TALK AT 7:30 ABOUT SOCIAL SECURITY

John G. Winant, chairman of the Social Security Board, will review the first year's progress under Social Security over the National Broadcasting Company, Thursday, August 13, at 7 p. m.

The Social Security Act was passed by an overwhelming and non-partisan vote of Congress and became law on August 14, 1935. Every state and territory of the United States is receiving three or more of the nine benefits now possible under the Social Security Act—several states are co-operating in all nine benefits.

Winant, chairman of the non-partisan Social Security Board, has long been identified with the movement toward Social Security. He was two terms Governor of New Hampshire, a member of both houses of that state's Legislature, and before accepting his present office was a representative of the United States in the International Labor office.

Faces Death Again

Mrs. DOROTHY SHERWOOD who was sentenced to die in the electric chair for the drowning of her two-year-old son and then given a respite shortly before the execution date, is pictured as she appeared in court at Newburgh, N. Y. Mrs. Sherwood, who maintained she drowned her son "to keep from starving", refused to plead guilty to a manslaughter charge and must again stand trial on first degree murder charges, Sept. 14. Thousands urged that Mrs. Sherwood be given a new trial, saying she had been unjustly convicted.

DECISION IN HOG ACTION CARRIED TO HIGHER COURT

Notice that a decision of Judge J. W. Adkins of common pleas court concerning 90 hogs involved in the Carl Cross receivership would be appealed to the court of appeals was filed in common pleas court Wednesday by E. L. Crist, attorney for the Columbus Production Credit Association.

Gilbert Dowden, Wayne township, asked the hogs be released from a levy made by the sheriff. The court released the hogs. The question involved was a sale agreement between Cross and Dowden, Mr. Crist explained. It is understood Cross expected to purchase the hogs but before a settlement was completed the levy was made. Motion for a new trial was overruled by Judge Adkins.

NATION MARKS MILLIONS OFF '37 PHONE BILL

Tariff Sharply Reduced On
All Types Of Long Distance Calls

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13--(UP) The American public will spend 150,000,000 fewer nickels for telephone service next year as a result of savings effected when the $5,000,000 Bell System reduces its tariff rates.

It is estimated, all told that when the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and its associates have finished revisions on existing tolls the public will have received an annual phone bill reduction of $7,350,000 based on 1936 business.

Reductions Started in 1926 By filing a lower tariff schedule on certain types of calls with the Federal Communication Commission, the A. T. & T. made the last of a series of moves started in 1926 to make less expensive to the public the use of the successor to Alexander Graham Bell's flimsy "electric ear."

The first reduction in recent years was effected a decade ago and the last sizable one was filed on Jan. 1, 1930. At that time, charges on calls over less than 200 miles were slightly reduced. Last Jan. 15, the company extended discounts on night calls to Sundays and saved telephone users an estimated $3,000,000 annually.

The most recent reductions follow the hammer-and-tongs investigation of the corporation by the government.

Hearings to Continue The Federal Communications Commission has delved into every operation of the A. T. & T. during a series of lengthy hearings which will be continued this fall.

The reduced rates under the Sept. 1 schedule cut prices for long-distance calls and person-to-person charges for long conversations. The new day station-to-station rate from New York to Chicago will be $2.50 instead of $3 on week days and $1.45 instead of $1.65 at night and on Sundays. Similarly, between New York and San Francisco, the new day rate will be $7.50 instead of $9 and on nights it will be $4.50 instead of $5.50.

METAL TEETH DEvised FROM JUNKED CYCLE

WOMBWELL, Eng. (UP)—False teeth made from an old motorcycle crank case are the crowning climax of a life of dental experimentation by Albert Orwin, road-worker living in the village of Jump, near here.

First Orwin tried his ingenuity on the knuckle bone of a leg of mutton but the bone was not big enough.

Then he tried using a billiard ball which, however, had the same defect, the diameter being only two and a half inches.

Success came when he melted down the aluminum from the crank case of the old motorcycle. The melted aluminum was run into an "impression" which he had taken himself.

Even so, this set is only for every-day use.

On Sundays his smile reveals a "perfect" set made from the aluminum screw tops of old thermos flasks.

ROTARIANS PLAN DISTRICT RALLY IN CHILLICOTHE

A group of Circleville Rotarians will go to Chillicothe Monday and Tuesday for the convention of the 22nd district of Rotary International to be held in the Elks' hall. Thomas J. Summers, Marietta attorney, is district governor and will preside at the assembly. Visitors will be welcomed Monday by Arthur M. Howson, president of the Chillicothe club.

Among those from Circleville who will attend the sessions are Karl J. Herrmann, president, and Charles T. Gilmore, secretary.

2 MORE CALVES ARRIVE ON FARM OF COUNTY MAN

Is it the water? Pickaway county highway employees hauling water to the farm of William Stalter, Monroe township, are beginning to wonder.

Last week they reported one of Mr. Stalter's cows gave birth to triplet calves. Wednesday they were informed another member of the herd had given birth to twins. All of the calves are doing quite well.

FLORIDA REAPS CITRUS PROFITS

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 13--(UP) With the last carload of fruit of the 1935-1936 crop shipped out of the state, Florida citrus growers have computed their profits and find that they are approximately $25,000,000 richer than they were when the season opened.

The citrus exchange here estimated the value of the total crop at $65,000,000 and charged off an estimated $40,000,000 for picking, packing and shipping. The remaining $25,000,000 net, they reported, is an unusually high profit for a staple crop in days of unsettled market conditions.

They reported a gross increase of $4,436,000 in the year's orange crop, which in volume was no larger than the 1934-1935 crop. Prices, however, averaged 41 cents a box higher than the previous year with an average auction value of $2.97.

The grapefruit crop was worth $406,665 more this year than last year.

Proportionately, the largest increase was in the value of the tangerine crop.

This year's shipments were worth $5,009,000, or $1,036,000 more than last year.

The total increase in value of all citrus crops was $7,879,000.

JAPAN IMPOSES SPECIAL TAXES IN RAIL ZONE

DAIREN, (UP)—Conclusion of the Japan-Manchukuo extraterritoriality treaty has been followed by imposition of special taxes upon Japanese residing in the South Manchuria Railway zone.

It was announced that imposition of the taxes was necessary to equalize the tax burden of Japanese within and without the zone. The extraterritoriality treaty exempted Japanese within the zone from Manchukuo taxes until 1938.

The taxes collected from Japanese in the railway zone go to the Japanese imperial government. Japanese outside the zone pay their taxes to Manchukuo.

There are 150 categories of taxation in the new order, which became effective July 1, including levies on money and property lending, sale and manufacture of commodities, electric and gas supply, theatrical and other public amusement businesses, printing and publishing, restaurants, public bathhouses, barbers and hotels.

FRUIT GROWERS TRY NEW SALES PLAN IN STATE

COLUMBUS, Aug. 13 — Fruit and vegetable growers in three northeastern Ohio counties will start a new venture in marketing their products with the opening of the Lake Shore Fruit Growers Cooperative Auction, Friday, August 14.

Two hundred members have formed the association to try this method of selling fruit and vegetables. The sales room is three miles west of Geneva and the growers live in Lake, Geauga, and Ashtabula counties in Ohio and in Erie county, Pennsylvania. The officers of the organization are: E. C. McKibben, Ashtabula, president; Wm. Seith, Perry, vice-president; S. S. Lehman, Girard, Pa., secretary and R. W. Gunn, Madison; T. L. White, eMntor, and M. A. Ring, Conneaut, directors.

Members bring their produce to the sales building three days each week and each load of produce is sold to the highest bidder. J. V. Meeder, Girard, Pa., is auctioneer. Goods are sold in the order that they arrive at the sales building and each grower receives the money for his own produce. This feature of the sales will tend to encourage growers to sell only first quality goods.

Supervision of the market to insure compliance with federal and state regulations will be furnished by the federal inspector for the district and by members of the state department of agriculture. Sales are made only for members of the state department of agriculture.

ture. Sales are made only for members of the association but any grower can become a member. Before starting this organization, delegates from the communities visited fruit and vegetable auctions in Pennsylvania and in New Jersey and observed selling methods used there.

Henry county farmers are getting some advance information on the supply, prices, and other factors that may affect the feeding of lambs this fall and winter. County agricultural agent E. H. Bond says that 10,000 western lambs and 5,000 natives were fed in the county last winter.

The spectacle of the once great Spanish Empire winding up in a free-for-all shindy in an acre lot would be funny if it were not for Benny and Adolf, who have no sense of humor.

BORAH AND ROSS MEET IN FALL FOR IDAHO JOB

Aged Republican Scores A Three-to-One Lead Over Townsendite

GOVERNOR'S EDGE LESS

Republican Show Gain But Still Below Democrats

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 13—(UP)—Sen. William E. Borah will be pitted against Gov. C. Ben Ross, three-time Democratic chief executive of Idaho, in his race for a sixth term in the U. S. senate.

The veteran senator, who predicted a close race with his Republican primary opponent, the Townsend-endorsed candidate, Byron Defenbach, had better than a three-to-one lead in late returns. The vote in Tuesday's primary showed today in 586 precincts out of the state's 850: Borah 30,272 and Defenbach 9,885.

Ross held a margin which seemed to assure him victory over John A. Carver, blind U. S. district attorney, for the Democratic nomination. Returns from 586 precincts gave Ross 25,391, and Carver 21,878.

The state, lost to the G. O. P., in 1930, showed a gain in Republican balloting, although it still failed to reach the Democratic vote. Borah still insisted he did not expect a hard fight in November.

A tight battle for the Democratic nomination for governor

all Tales

THE boys at Bud Hard-en's garage are telling this one about George Iles, who became a father this week. Whether George was fishing at the time of the birth is not known to "Ye Chief Liar", but the story as told by his co-workers is a honey.

George was supposed to be at Buckeye Lake, taking fish out of the water as fast as he could toss in the line. He caught a big one and was so elated that he wired his wife: "I've got one, weighs seven pounds, and it is a beauty."

The answer he received was: "So have I; weighs eight pounds. Not a beauty-looks like you. Come home."

RACES OF WORLD GROWING TALLER

LONDON, Aug. 13.—(UP)—The human race is growing taller.

That conclusion has been reached after a study of human growth over a number of years, details of which are given in the current issue of the "British Medical Journal."

Children of today, according to the experience of many countries, it is said, compare favorably with children the same ages before the war; and a tendency to increase of growth long has been observed.

Figures for measurements of mark, Holland, Switzerland and recruits in Norway, Sweden, Denmark over a period of years all show an increase in weight also.

Even in Japan measurements on students record increases of growth while it is recalled that in the United States there has been a slight increase in growth during the last 80 years.

"In general, however," it is stated, "the bodily build of both sexes has tended to become slimmer, especially for women in the region of the hips, an observation also made in Germany."

This change is attributed primarily to environmental influences, including general improvements in hygiene, improvement in average diets and the result of sports and gymnastics work.

"It is noticeable," adds the report, "that the inhabitants of cities in general are bigger than countrymen. Those of the North bigger than those of the South. Hence one can hardly attribute the change to the effect of sunlight, which some have occasionally regarded as the primary factor of growth."

Wouldn't it be a joke if Switzerland, with 3,000,000 population of a sort and not much else, including the League of Nations, were to be swallowed up by one of the neighboring dictators, "in the interest of civilization?"

There is no doubt that the Italian people have been getting clear, accurate and unbiased accounts of happenings at Geneva from the Italian "journalists" who booed Halle Selassie when he took the floor.

Harlow's Turtle Soup Gone; Betz is Worried

Knock, knock. "Who's there," inquired Mr. Betz. "Wanda," said Fred Harlow. "Wanda who."

"Wanda who took the last two gallons of the best turtle soup I ever made, and your kettle," Mr. Harlow explained.

A mystery surrounds the disappearance of the soup. The sportsmen believe the kettle may be returned but they hold little hope for the soup. Both disappeared Wednesday evening from the basement of the Betz restaurant.

At least thirty local sportsmen sampled the soup Wednesday afternoon and evening. Some took it in relays. It was a special brand mixed by Fred Harlow, Newark, district conservation officer, made from a 17-pound turtle he purchased at Buckeye Lake.

Prepared by Betz. Mr. Harlow took the turtle to the restaurant where it was dressed by Mr. Betz and Harry Timmons. The assistant cooks reported Betz wore off the turtle's neck with a meat cleaver.

Betz and Harlow spent the afternoon making the soup. They were assisted by Clarence Francis, local game officer, and Clarence Hiller, Fairfield county officer.

The men said they used 12 cans of tomatoes and just "tossed in" some corn, onions, beans and celery and plenty of seasoning. When the soup was completed they had five gallons. "It's the first turtle soup I've made this summer and the best I've ever made," Harlow said.

The turtle meat was stewed, then fried in butter. Two waiters in the restaurant were kept busy supplying consumers with soup, crackers and water.

Betz bemoaned the fact he was served only three bowls of the soup. It disappeared while he was home resting for another soup-eating session. "It is the first time anything has ever been taken from the basement of my restaurant," Betz said.

No Crow Eating. Mr. Harlow plans to hold future soup dinners here but he refuses to take part in any crowd-eating affairs being considered by local sportsmen.

The life of the average song hit is considerably shortened, says a radio survey. It is progress, even if we can still hear it.

AT THE CLIFTONA

A fast-moving story of adventure, intrigue and romance, unspoiled by emphasis on the melodramatic, is presented in the picture which plays Today at the Cliftona theatre; "The Return of Sophie Lang," with Gertrude Michael playing the title role.

A successor to the film of two years ago which introduced Sophie to screen audience, "The Notorious Sophie Lang," the picture picks up the yarn of the lovely lifter of jewels and hearts at a date several years after the close of the first story.

Sophie Lang, believed dead, in reality is in hiding. She has given up her light-fingered ways and has become the trusted companion of an elderly, wealthy collector of gems, Elizabeth Patterson. Her former companion in crime, Sir Guy Standing, has returned to his old ways after spending several years in prison.

AT THE GRAND

"The Law In Her Hands", the First National comedy drama, which was shown at the Grand theatre yesterday for the first time locally, is a thoroughly entertaining picture, crammed full of thrilling incidents, fast action, hilarious comedy situations and a glamorous romance.

The story is woven about the operations of two women lawyers, who after nearly starving to death as honest and upright barristers, decide the whole game is one of tricks and go in for criminal law, becoming rich and successful as the "mouthpieces" of a band of racketeers.

BUSINESS LIFE EXPECTANCY

A SUBJECT of perhaps little if any less general interest than that of life expectancy itself is business life expectancy. This is true, of course, for women as well as men. Accordingly, it is likely that women in business, many of them at any rate, will find time to read the report by the American Woman's Association on a survey of the depression's effects on business and professional women from 1929 to 1936.

From 1350 answers to a questionnaire, the association's researchers concluded that women over 40 made more money and lost fewer jobs in these years than did their younger sisters. The women reporting the top salaries, $6,000 to $10,000 and over, averaged 50 years or over. Fifteen per cent of those under 40 experienced unemployment in the five-year period as against only 9 per cent of those over 40. That side of the picture for the business or professional woman over 40 is pretty encouraging. There is another side not so cheering: when a woman over 40 loses her job her chance of getting another one is pretty slim.

For the young woman who is starting out in a business and professional career, the association draws from its survey this first commandment: Establish yourself before you are 30 in a position that will lead to your ultimate goal. Finish your flitting from flower to flower while still in the twenties. From 30 on you must devote yourself to the single-minded climb upward "on the same job or to a better one in the same organization, if a high salary, a position of security, influence and prestige in the business or professional world is to be attained."

NO SPINSTERS

LIKE the Aztecs and Amazons, the "old maids" are a vanished race. A literary searching party sent into the field for the latter by one of the woman's magazines found some evidences that they once existed and traced some legends that have been handed down from generation to generation.

There are still unmarried ladies of past marrying age, but they are no longer spoken of as spinsters, contemplated sadly, made the brunt of derisive wit, nor found to conceal their state as something disgraceful and unblest.

Time was when the unmarried woman over 30 kept very quiet about her "single blessedness." Now she proclaims it aloud and aloft. Of old it was hurt pride that made old maids profess preference for their lonely existence. Today many women are sincere in protestations of that sort.

PRESIDENT PLANS 'SHOW BOAT' TRIP

WASHINGTON—The President's forthcoming dust-bowl trip will be quite a circus, and the conference with Governor Landon is only one of the acts.

The President has a big surprise up his sleeve. It is a spectacular "show boat" journey down the Mississippi River on one of the vessels of the Government's inland water fleet.

Accompanied by three or four members of his Cabinet, conservation experts, and a large entourage of reporters and camera men, the President plans to steam down the river and make numerous stops on the way.

The trip will start at Minneapolis and go as far south as Memphis, Tenn. Among the cities to be visited will be St. Louis, Cairo, Ill., Dubuque, Iowa, and La Crosse, Wis. It is also possible that from Memphis the President may retrace his steps to Cairo and go up the Ohio for stops at Louisville, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh.

En route the President will invite state and local officials to accompany him. At the various stops he will hold conferences and "say a few words" to the assembled populace.

STRAW BALLOTS

The Democratic campaign high command is preparing a blast against election polls.

The straw ballots have been getting in the New Dealers' hair. They assert most of them are loaded against the regime, that their real purpose is not to obtain an accurate sample of public sentiment but to propagandize against the Administration.

A group of statisticians have been checking up on various national and local polls, and their findings will shortly be unloosed in a nationwide radio speech by a top-rug New Dealer.

One poll that will come in for a vigorous drubbing is the one conducted by The Farm Journal. This is an old publication that last Spring was bought by Joseph N. Pew, of Philadelphia, multi-millionaire head of the Sun Oil Co., and one of the "Big Three" Republican bosses of Pennsylvania.

In the announcement of the first returns of its poll, The Farm Journal credited Governor Landon with receiving 54.7 per cent of the rural vote as against 45 per cent for Roosevelt.

But the New Dealers say that a close study of the farm paper's figures revealed these discrediting facts:

social revolution. Emancipation of womanhood contributed. Industrial independence and virtual equality between the sexes in business helped remove the old-maid stigma. The changed economic order which placed millions of women in a better position to support a husband than millions of men are in to support a wife added fuel to the feminist's fire.

Sentimentalists who weep for the old and decay the new will concede, at least, that abolition of the bondage of spinsterhood was a humanitarian stroke.

Love isn't Important

By LOUISE JERROLD

COPYRIGHT L. C. PAGE & CO., INC. RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Gay Ellwell, check girl in a prominent Detroit club, meets a number of social elite when she fills in at a dinner party at the request of Dr. Wilson, a club member. One is Brock Carter who is very friendly toward Gay; another, Wayne Adams who is both interested and annoyed by her; and then Christian Scott and Tim Keenan, two millionaires. Tim takes her to his suburban estate and makes suggestions which Gay resents. Tim talks of his engagement to Eleanor Randolph and Gay counters with her philosophy of marriage. Gay agrees to show great interest in Tim to arouse Eleanor's jealousy and hasten her return from Europe. Mark Vance, artist, for whom Gay is posing in the evenings, discusses Brock and Wayne.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 21
"BRECK CARTER'S in with Mr. Adams—sort of a partner or something, isn't he?" Gay asked Mark Vance.

The artist nodded, munching a sandwich.
"Righto. They've both invested every cent they could get their hands on. Breck's always struck me as sort of a lightweight, but Ad swears by him. Claims he's the most skillful pilot in the country, even though he looks and acts like a kid."

"He's a wild Indian, that Carter boy," Charlotte Vance remarked, as she refilled the coffee cups.
"Listen, Mark. Did you hear what he did to Peggy, the other day? Had an engagement to take her to lunch, and never showed up till next day. Said he was flying, and forgot! Was she furious?"

"Peggy," observed the artist, "is a badly spoiled young lady. All her life people have been knowing before her, on account of her money. Now she's in love with a chap who has brains enough to keep her guessing, and it's just what she needs. Remember how I treated you, Charlotte?"
The same thing, exactly!" He winked at Gay. "And how you loved it! The more I shoved you off, the harder you came after me!"

"Idiot!" jeered Mrs. Vance, affectionately. And then, to Gay, "We're frightfully selfish, keeping you here while we gossip about people you're not the least bit interested in. Mark, pay the child her money, and let her go. We've got to be getting home ourselves."

For two afternoons following, Gay came to the studio and posed in the bathing costume. Then she changed to day-duty at the club, and telephoned Mark Vance to tell him she could pose only in the evening.

"Let's call it off for tonight," Mark suggested. "Charlotte and I are going to the theater. But be at the studio at eight promptly, Friday evening."

On Friday, therefore, as soon as Jean arrived to take charge of the costume, Gay hurriedly scrambled out of her uniform and into street clothes, and was on her way. As she came out into the street from the employees' entrance, she noticed a roadster parked close to the curb, under the arc light. She was about to walk past, when a familiar, drawing-voice hailed her.

"Why the rush? Don't you even speak to me, any more?" She stopped short. "Hello, Breck. I didn't recognize you." He had stepped out, and was smiling at her, hand extended.

"I've waited half an hour to talk to you. Get in the car." Gay paused. "I'm sorry you waited. I haven't time to stop."

Breck repeated, "Get in the car. I have a little bone to pick with you. I'll drive you home, and we can talk on the way."

"But I'm not going home." "Where are you going?"

"To Mr. Vance's studio, up on Rowena. I'm posing for him." Breck hesitated for only an instant. "I'll drive you there. . . . Whereabouts on Rowena?"

Gay told him, and added that she must be there in 20 minutes.

"Come along, then. You needn't be afraid I'm going to kidnap you. I have a date with Peggy for nine o'clock and I intend to keep it. His voice was impatient. "Let's go."

Yielding, Gay climbed into the roadster, and as it gathered speed, said demurely, "I'm grateful for the lift. This is lots nicer than the Woodward street cars. They bump so!"

"Do they?" Breck was sardonic. "Well, they couldn't bump you half as hard as I'd like to. Let's get down to cases, Gay. What's the big idea of the run-around you've been giving me?"

Gay slid down farther in the seat, relaxing comfortably. "I'm so tired, Breck. Please don't be cross. And I don't know what you mean by 'run-around.'"

He looked straight ahead, slowing down for the changing lights at the intersection of Woodward and Forest avenues. "Why don't you answer the letters I've written you? Why haven't you phoned? Is all this coy stuff just a come-on game, or are you really off me?"

The traffic light flashed to green, and the roadster darted off again, narrowly escaping collision with a cruising taxi. "Maybe you think I enjoy saying sappy things like this! Why, woman—I've never groveled to anyone in all my life! Never had to! If someone had told me a month ago, that I'd be chasing a girl this way, I'd have laughed my head off!"

He turned sharply off Woodward avenue, and slowed up by the curb. The side street was dark and quiet. Breck turned off the ignition.

"I can't talk and drive. Let's have it out, right here and now. Are you sore at me because I go around with Peggy?"

Gay smiled. "I don't care if you see Peggy Pennell every night in the week."

"Then why are you peeved at me?"

"Do you want the truth?" "Shoot the works!"

"All right, then," Gay faced him. How good-looking he was, and how well he knew it! "I liked you a lot the first time I met you, Breck. But that other night—when you took me to the speakeasy! That was awful! I don't go in for wrestling matches. It's no fun for a girl to go out with a man, and be mauled to pieces."

Breck muttered, "I've told you—Other girls wouldn't raise such a yelp over nothing."

"No, wait!" Gay interrupted. "The whole thing is this, Breck. When they told you I was a Miss Smith, the daughter of a friend of Doctor Wilson's, you behaved pretty well. But afterward, when you found out I was just a check girl, how you changed! You thought you could do anything you wanted—tear my clothes off, even, if that would amuse you!"

As she recalled that rowdy struggle on the chaise longue, Gay trembled with indignation.

"I did not tear your clothes off! I mean—I—" Breck grinned. "Good Lord above, did I really?" he added, with unaffected interest and surprise.

"You tried to!" Against her will, Gay smiled, too. You couldn't stay angry with Breck; there was something so boyish about that shamefaced grin of his.

"But don't you see how you hurt my pride?" she asked. "I'm not a cheap little—"

"Just a minute, honey," Breck lifted his hand. "If I thought you were cheap, I'd never have bothered dating you. I didn't intend to get so rough—but I had a drink or two more than I could handle, and things happened. I don't even remember what I did, but whatever it was, I'm sorry. I apologized before, and I apologize again."

"And I give you my word, Gay, with all my faults I'm not a snob. Whether a girl is Junior league, or a Follies graduate, I treat her exactly the same. You believe me when I say that, don't you, sweetheart?"

There was a note of sincerity in Breck's voice, and Gay nodded.

"I guess so."

"And you'll excuse me for being such a roughneck that other night, if I swear it won't happen again? You'll go out with me, if I treat you with great respect, and sit way off from you, like this?" As Breck finished the question, he moved far off, to the extreme edge of the seat.

Gay couldn't help laughing. "Don't be so silly! You won't have to keep quite that far away from me!"

"That's the way we sit, and that's the way we dance, from now on," he assured her. "Honey, you're dynamite. When I get any closer, I go haywire. Look!"

He drew a trifle nearer. "You can see for yourself: I quiver in every limb, as they say in the movies. And when I put my arm around you, like this, I lose all control—like a 1917 DeHaviland in an air pocket!"

Gay removed his arm. "You're nice enough," she remarked, "when you want to be."

"Nice yourself," Breck responded. He leaned toward her. "Silly, don't you realize I'm completely goofy over you? That it's hard as the devil to make myself behave when I'm near you? If I had a brain in my head, I'd run when I see you coming, instead of chasing after you!"

I was all set with Peggy, until you came along. Liked her fine. She's not such a bad kid, you know. But now I've got you on my mind, I can't see Peg for dust."

He looked into Gay's eyes. "Girl, what is this strange power you have over men?"

"My fatal beauty!" Gay murmured, and they laughed together.

Then Gay noticed the clock on the dashboard, and gave a cry of dismay.

"Three minutes of eight! Breck, hurry, or I'll be late for my appointment!"

"Darn your appointments," he complained disgustedly, but at Gay's insistence he pressed the starter, and the car purred smoothly up the street again toward the bright haze of lights that was Woodward avenue.

"Honey, I'd rather spend an evening with you, than with any other girl in the world. You've got 'em all stopped."

His free hand met and held Gay's, but nothing more was said till they drew up before the studio building. Then, as he helped her out, "I reckon I'll be seeing you tomorrow night at Ad's party. But I won't be able to dance with you often. Peggy'll be there; and when I say that child's jealous, I mean! You understand how I'm placed, don't you, precious?"

Gay nodded. "That's quite all right," she assured him, coolly. "It's not all right, I hate it. But business is business, honey lamb, and I can't afford to get in wrong with the Pennells."

As he spoke, Gay remembered what Mark Vance had said: "Charlie Pennell can't make up his mind, whether or not to come in on the deal."

Of course, Breck had to play safe. A breakup with Peggy at this time would undoubtedly spoil everything. She couldn't exactly blame Breck for the careful game he and Wayne Adams were playing. But still—

"We'll have a little private date next week, just you and I," Breck was saying, as he got back into the car. "Good night, Beautiful!" And before Gay could answer, he was gone.

Boys Return to Homes After Two Weeks' Camp

David Orr Awarded Honor for Fifth Year at Oval

Wednesday brought to a close a two weeks' session of boys who were in camp at Mt. Oval in Pickaway township.

During that time Leslie Pontius conducted a nature hike for the boys, and Miss Iola Wentworth instructed the group in finger painting.

With the help of Miss Margaret Boggs and Charles Will a marionette show was presented on Friday.

Ned Stout visited the camp on pirate's day when the boys enjoyed a treasure hunt.

A fourth year camp award was earned by David Orr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Orr, S. Court street. He has been a member of Camp Oval for five years. He was chief of the tribe this year. Other awards were presented to Bill Ruff of Columbus, Tom DeLay and Dick Michael of Jackson.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief Of Pain

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing.

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills—which have been used successfully for over 40 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills.

JOHNNY MIZE'S CLUBBING KEEPS CARDINALS ON TOP NATIONAL HEAP

YOUNG CLOUTER ENDS TILT WITH CHICAGO, 5 TO 3

New York Wins Thriller From Brooklyn; Yanks Resume Activity

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Johnny Mize, sensational young first baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals, appeared today to be outdistancing Joe DiMaggio, pride of the New York Yankees, for the honor of being called "prize rookie of 1936."

While "Dimag" and the Yankees are coasting toward an American league pennant in rather unexciting fashion, Mize is playing a major batting role in the Cardinals' knock-down-drag-out fight for the National league flag.

In the final skirmish yesterday, which saw the Cardinals beating the Cubs 5-3 to recapture first place by a game, it was Johnny's home run with two on in the sixth that routed Larry French and saved up the decision.

New York's Giants won a 12-inning verdict from the Brooklyn Dodgers to move within 2½ games of the second-place Cubs. It was a pitching battle between Frank Gabriel and Van Mungo, Gabriel winning his own game with a 12th-inning triple scoring two runs. Pittsburgh defeated Cincinnati, 6-1, and the Boston Bees defeated Philadelphia 4-2, in other National league games.

The Yankees, with Jake Powell as lead off man in a revised lineup, emerged from a brief batting slump to defeat Washington, 11-7, in the American league. The Detroit Tigers defeated Cleveland, 7-4, and the Indians fell 11½ games behind New York. Vernon Kennedy pitched his 16th victory as the Chicago White Sox defeated St. Louis, 8-3. The Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia Athletics split a doubleheader. Boston took the opener, 6-4. Philadelphia won the nightcap, 6-0 behind Harry Kelley's three-hit pitching.

YESTERDAY'S HERO: — Wes Ferrell, besides registering his 15th victory, he batted in all his team's runs with two circuit clouts — one with the bases loaded — as the Boston Red Sox defeated Philadelphia, 6-4.

GIBSON WHITE'S BAY FILLY WINS GOSHEN FEATURE

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Young Gibson White's bay filly, Rosalind, reigned the outstanding harness three-year-old of 1936 today following her record-shattering victory in the Hambletonian stake, greatest of all trotting races.

The daughter of Scotland-Alma-Lee showed her heels to none of the fastest three-year-olds in training as she won the $35,643 classic in straight heats of 2 minutes 1½ seconds and 2:02¼—the two fastest times ever put together in the stake. A crowd of 45,000 roared its approval.

Ben White, wearing the black and white silks of his son, Gibson White, piloted Rosalind to the $18,669 first prize money and became the first driver in the 11 years of Hambletonian history to win the classic twice. He won with Mary Reynolds in 1933.

ESHELMAN CREW HITS HARD, WINS FROM OILS, 7 TO 1

Esheleman Feeds climbed out of undisputed possession of the cellar Wednesday evening dropping the Circleville Oils a notch in the softball league when Carl Purcell pitched his team to a 7 to 1 victory.

Four runs in the fourth and three in the fifth clinched the game for the Feeds. The Oils had few runners on the bases.

Circleville Oils, winners of the first half title, were without the services of Hegele, Reger, Trimmer and Brungs. Geib, pitching for the Oils, was touched freely by the winners.

Tonight Circleville Oils and Cities Service Oils tangle with Jaggy Davis to hurl for the east enders.

REDS TO MEET CHICAGO CUBS TWICE SUNDAY

CINCINNATI, Aug. 13.—The Chicago Cubs, who have been threading in and out of first and second place in the National League standings recently, visit Crosley Field during the next few days in another effort to "take the Reds in stride." Four games will be played, with single games Friday and Saturday and a double-header Sunday. Up to the present moment the Reds have battled the Cubs on even terms. The Redlegs stepped ahead of the Cardinals on their season's series a few days ago, and now Charley Dressen's men hope to take a majority of the Chicago series, which would enable them to step ahead of the Cubs on the season's count.

BLUES SLIP UP ON A. A. LEADERS WITH TWO WINS

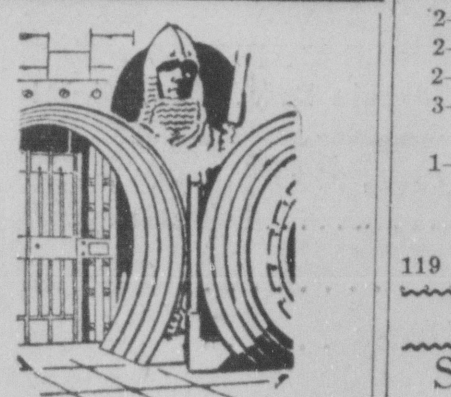

BY UNITED PRESS
The Kansas City Blues, rallying with timely hitting, slipped up on the league leading teams yesterday with two victories over the last place Louisville Colonels.

The double bill gave the Blues a decided edge over Minneapolis, as the Millers fell in an extra-inning affair with Toledo. The Blues won 6 to 3 and 7 to 3, with Niggeling and Vance carrying the pitching honors.

The Millers lost 8 to 11 to a battling Mud Hen club in a game that was nip-and-tuck until the 11th inning. The Hens smashed Olson in the first for six runs, then couldn't stop the Hens.
The leading Milwaukee Brewers hurling. Two other Miller hurlers beat Indianapolis 7 to 5, making managed to reach Grabowski after he had put in ten innings of relief it two in a row over the Indians, who made a bid recently for first division.
Second place St. Paul used Rigney to play a shutout performance against the Columbus Red Birds, offsetting two defeats at the hands of the Birds. The score was 4 to 0. Rigney allowed only 7 hits.

About This And That In Many Sports

Soldiers to Return

Softball competition will be resumed in earnest next week when members of several teams, now in camp in Kentucky, return for action—The Eagles, benefitted by having several games scheduled the week before the camp started, have not suffered by loss of players since they have not met a foe in the last two weeks—Other teams, notably the Circleville Oils and Cities Service Oils, have been handicapped, the former by loss of their only pitcher, Bill Hegele, and the latter by loss of Center Fielder Rich Smalley. . . .

Shorts Runs Out

Failure of Harry Short to get in the money in the Hambletonian, feature harness race, disappointed many of his Pickaway county followers—Rosalind, picked weeks ago as the probable winner, came through in straight heats of 2:02¼ and 2:01¼ to win—Short's horse, Gaiety Mite, finished last—Gaiety Mite will probably run in the Ohio state fair classic, and so will Rosalind. . . .

Power to Cardinals

More power to the Cardinals—This column is for the St. Louis outfit and its rowdiness, despite Sam Breadon and his low wage program—Any crew that possesses Pepper Martin, Leo Durocher, Diz Dean, Terry Moore and Joe Medwick is good enough for the janitor—It's a thrill to watch Durocher light into his teammates about bonehead plays—Leo, you know, is about the best shortstop in anybody's league, and he is the Cardinal captain—What Leo says goes while the team is on the field—Old St. Johnson, discarded by the Reds, hurled the Cards to a 5-3 victory over the Cub ace, Larry French, Wednesday—Johnson was hit hard and often, but home runs by Johnny Mize and Ducky Medwick did the trick—This Mize boy seems to have won a position, too, replacing Ripper Collins, who is good enough for any other club in the league—Ripper may become an outfielder. . . .

LEE GAMBLE, Macon, Ga., South Atlantic league player, is the latest to be hailed as another "Ty Cobb." Lee, in his first pro game, hit safely four times and stole two bases.

For Safety's sake PAVE THE GAPS WITH Concrete
Why do state highway departments warn the public: "Concrete pavement ends"? Because it is universally accepted that speeds which are reasonable and safe on concrete become dangerous on other surfaces.
To save lives, to prevent accidents... demand concrete all the way.
True and even, it has no high crown—is usable to its full width. Brakes are at their best on its gritty non-skid surface. Its light gray color and sharply defined edges give high visibility at night. Any car is a better car on concrete.
And concrete saves money for motorists and for taxpayers. Insist on concrete for your roads.

Lewis Stone to Make First Appearance on Radio Saturday Eve

ERWIN TO HAVE PART IN AIRING; JOE MARTY, TOO

Rookie Baseball Player Sought by 13 Major League Managers

Lewis Stone, one of the few remaining top-flight film stars who has never been heard on the radio, will make his first appearance at a microphone in Chateau as the guest of Smith Baller next Saturday. In addition Baller presents Stuart Erwin, the comedian who also plays "tough guys" on occasion, in a brand new role — that of a Hollywood reporter; and Joe Marty, star outfielder of the San Francisco team in the Pacific Coast League. The all-star variety show will be broadcast over a

WEAF-NBC network at 8:30 p. m. (EST). Stone has played scores of roles in the films, both talkies and silent, and is one of the most popular character actors in Hollywood both with the fans and his fellow stars. He is one of the very rare personalities of the screen who hasn't yet done a part on the air. Baller has been trying for some time to get him to a microphone in Chateau and this week he has succeeded. Stu Erwin is not a newcomer to radio as an actor but he does appear in a brand new role this week. Instead of playing drama or a straight comedy sketch Erwin will masquerade as the "Rumbling Reporter" of Hollywood giving exclusive comedy flashes on the great and near great of the studios. Joe Marty is the outstanding rookie of this season in the Pacific Coast League. In his first year as an outfielder of the San Francisco Seals, Marty has been hailed as the league's leading player and as another Jo Di Maggio, the player who came up from the Seals to the New York Yankees this season. Stu Erwin will interview Marty, whose services are now being sought by no less than thirteen major league teams. Music by Victor Young's orchestra, songs by Smith Baller and the Golden Shell Girls, complete the show.

F.D.R. IS READY TO START TOUR OF THREE DAYS

Two Or Three Speeches Planned On Visits To Pivotal Area

APPEARS AT EXPOSITION

Many iCties Request That Executive Makes Stops

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13—(UP)—President Roosevelt begins a "non-political" tour into the pivotal states of Pennsylvania, Ohio and New York today where he will inspect the scenes of recent disastrous floods, and make two or three speeches.

He will be on the road until late Saturday night, when his special train arrives in Hyde Park, N. Y. There he will live in the summer White House for a week.

Arrangements of all details were not completed until last night. Mr. Roosevelt will travel through the populous industrial regions of Pennsylvania, particularly the mine areas, and the normally Republican southern tier of New York state.

Short Talk Planned

Two speeches have been booked. Friday he will speak briefly at the Great Lakes Exposition in Cleveland. At Chautauqua, N. Y., Friday he will speak on foreign affairs.

The Chautauqua speech is expected to be a major one. Mr. Roosevelt is expected not only to reaffirm the policy of non-interference in the internal affairs of other nations but also to define again the cardinal points of his good neighbor policy.

Along his line of travel that weaves in and out of Pennsylvania and New York, it was assumed that Mr. Roosevelt would make platform appearances. He is being besieged with requests that he say a few words here and there but because of the primary purpose of the trip is to confer with officials on flood control and inspect flood damage, they will be held to a minimum.

In spite of White House insistence that there is no political significance to the tour, observers pointed to the territory he is invading as an argument that he cannot disregard that he is in the midst of a campaign for reelection.

Mr. Roosevelt on departing from Washington at 10 a. m., EST, will go first to Johnstown, Pa., scene of a disastrous flood last spring. There he will detain and board an automobile for an inspection trip south to Scarp Level, returning via Ferndale.

After dinner on the train at Johnstown he will confer with representatives of federal and state agencies on flood control and allied problems.

Departing from Johnstown, the Roosevelt special will go to Cleveland. He will lunch at the fair grounds and in the afternoon board his train for Mayville, N. Y., four miles from Chautauqua.

F. D. R. SAYS NO NEW TAXES NEEDED

LOGAN ELM DISPUTE CONTINUES

BOGGS FAMILY PLANS APPEAL TO SOCIETIES

M'Pherson Awaits Arrival Of Shetrone Before Taking Action

W.P.A. WORK POSTPONED

Former Owners Of Property Say Sentiment Gone

Officials of the Ohio Archeological and Historical society maintain their hope for an amicable settlement of the dispute surrounding removal of the Boggs family monument from a mound, later destroyed, in Logan Elm state park. This expression was learned Thursday after Frank Fischer, superintendent of Circleville schools, visited H. R. McPherson, curator of state parks and conferred with him at his home in Cincinnati.

Mr. McPherson, whose order removed the mound and its monument, told Mr. Fischer he was willing to confer with any member of the Boggs family in an effort to right the condition. "No desecration of the park was meant," Mr. McPherson said, "in the order to remove the monument and place it at another location. The mound obstructed a certain view of the Logan Elm and we believed, after considerable study, that a new location would benefit the entire park."

Was It Indian Mound?

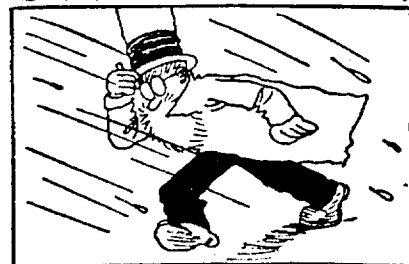

"We had no knowledge the mound holding the family monument might have been an Indian mound as claimed," the curator stated. "If, after further investigation, we learn the mound was built by the Indians we will replace it. However, if such is the case no monument, regardless of its historic value, should be placed on it."

Several residents of Pickaway township insist the mound was not built by Indians. Mr. McPherson expects a decision next week when H. C. Shetrone director of the society, returns after his vacation in Wisconsin.

The Boggs family is not satisfied with Mr. McPherson's statement that the monument will be moved not more than 10 feet from its original site. Mrs. John Boggs, W. Union street, wife of one of the descendants of the Pickaway township family which owned the land on which the Elm stands before transferring it to the state, said that removal of the monument even one foot from its former location erases all history surrounding it. "The monument was on the site of the old Boggs cabin," she said, "and to move it wipes out the history."

Three Villages in Path of Wild Forest Fires in Northern Region

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 13.—(UP)—Fires raced through the forests of northern Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan toward smoke-choked settlements where park and conservation officials mustered fresh battalions of volunteers and recruits to check their advance.

One major blaze leaped fire lines and spread faster than a man could run toward the villages of Bassett, Toimi and Fairbanks, in northern Minnesota. Observers said it was out of control.

Blazing virgin timber ringed the Chippewa harbor settlement on Isle Royale in Lake Superior. Coast guard cutters and private vessels stood off shore ready to remove resortists and fishermen as the flames advanced within a half mile of their homes.

50,000 Men Used

Nearly 50,000 men fought the fires. Minnesota officers sent 20,000 into the Superior National Forest north of Duluth to try and control the fire there. Wisconsin officials, fearing spread of the Minnesota fires into the Bayfield-Superior district, maintained 15,000 fire fighters and scouts in the backwoods wilderness. With 2,000 men and youths already at the Isle Royale fire front, the National Park service appealed to state officers for more experienced help. Several thousand more patrolled partially-controlled fires in other sections of upper Michigan.

Scattered showers brought only short respite yesterday. A few hours after it was announced that all fires were under control, the forests dried out again. Wind carried sparks from the smoldering fire areas over ditches and artificially burned fire-lanes into new districts. Lightning which accompanied the rain started scores of smaller blazes.

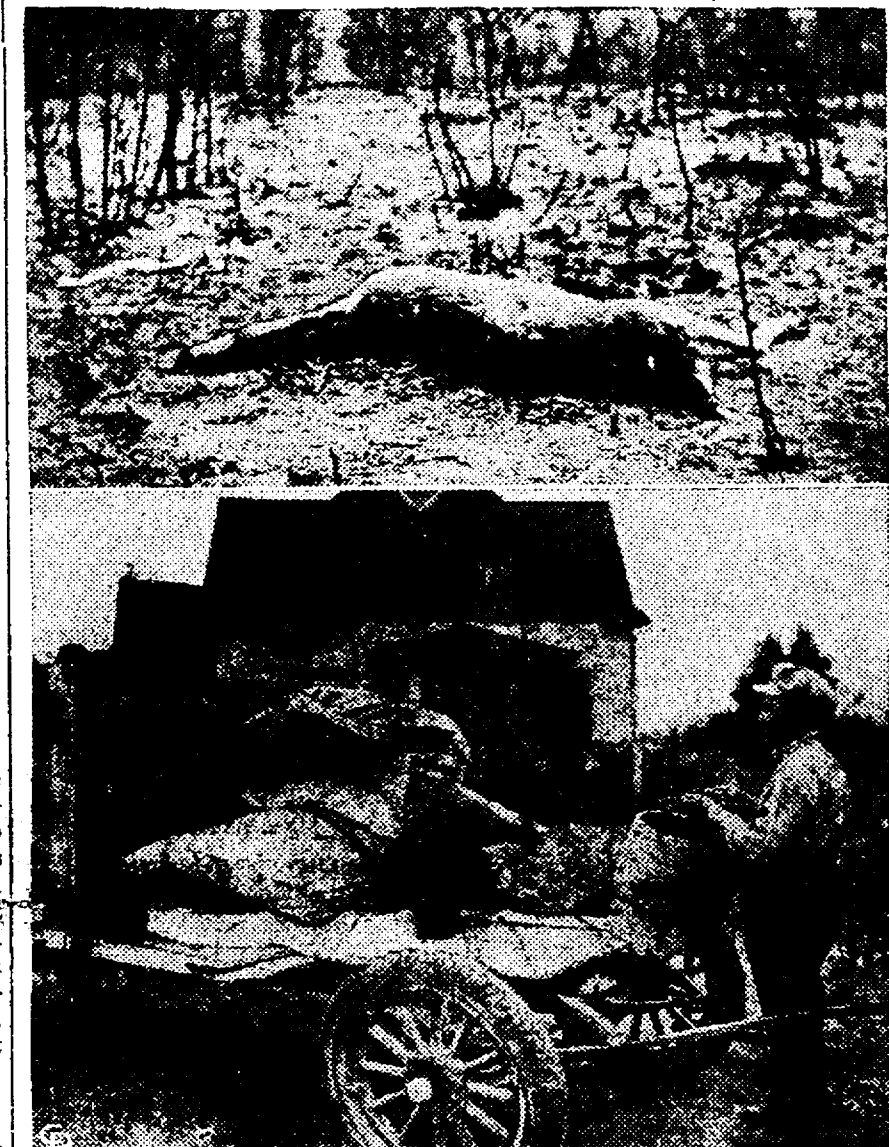

Virgin pine and hardwoods and less valuable second growth, paper-dry after months of drought literally exploded as stifling winds dropped burning brands in their branches. Heat of the fires was so intense that workers could not approach close enough to combat them effectively.

Peat Burns Feet

Peat in marshes burned several feet below the surface, defying the feeble sprays of hand-pumps and burning too deep for effective ditch-digging. Heat of the peat fires burned the feet of fire-fighters, and the choking ammonia-like fumes turned them back hundreds of yards from the blazes.

Only four or five inches of rain, lasting over three or four days, will extinguish the fires. Wisconsin conservation officers said.

Smoke from burning and smoldering fire settled over villages and Wisconsin officials warned of increased dangers of night driving along highways in the fire district. Smoke over Isle Royale defeated efforts to spot key points in the fires there from airplanes. Heavy clouds which drifted over Lake Superior made navigation difficult between the island and the mainland.

FOREST fires, burning over parts of seven states in north central United States, have devastated wide areas, causing suffering to man and beast. At the top, a doe, burned to death, is seen lying in a woods near Brule, Wis. Below, Otto Kangas of Palo, Minn., piles his trailer with household belongings to flee a fire which a half hour later razed his house and barns and destroyed all his livestock.

REBEL COLUMNS ON COAST CITIES START CAMPAIGN

TOLESA, Spain, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Picked rebel columns, comprised of men trained in mountain fighting, began a desperate drive for San Sebastian and the sea today, hoping to cut loyalist communication to the west before the fall of Oviedo.

One column, after consolidating its capture of Tolosa, advanced another five miles to Villabona, on the highway only 11 miles south of San Sebastian.

It started fighting its way today along a line beside the Leizor river.

A second column closed in on Gyarzun, seven miles southeast of San Sebastian.

Rebel column leaders hope that they can take San Sebastian this weekend.

Flying columns from these bases, if the rebel strategy works out, will cut the loyalist communication to Bilbao, Santander and Oviedo.

JUDGE TO TAKE ACTRESS' DIARY TO END DISPUTE

Knight to Place Severe Conditions on Control Of Mary's Daughter

SETTLEMENT IS REACHED

Court Insists Magnates Did Not Use Pressure

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Judge Goodwin Knight will impose severe conditions today on Mary Astor and Dr. Franklyn Thorpe in granting them joint control of their four-year-old daughter. His intent will be to "sew up" the sensational litigation between the film star and her divorced husband so that it can never be reopened.

Judge Knight made this statement of his plans in revealing that he would take charge of Miss Astor's rhapsodical diary, in which she confessed an extra-marital love for George S. Kaufman, famous playwright. The disposition of the diary will be known only to Dr. Thorpe, Miss Astor and the court, but it was understood that Judge Knight would impound it in such a way that it can do no further damage to Miss Astor and be of no further assistance to her former husband.

Judge to Take Diary

Judge Knight told the United Press that when court convenes at 1 p. m. EST, he will instruct John Anderson, Dr. Thorpe's attorney, to hand him the diary forthwith. He said he would recess court to read "every word in the diary."

He will reconvene court, he said, and summon Miss Astor, Dr. Thorpe, and their attorneys before him to hear a reading of a written memorandum governing the custody of Marilyn Thorpe.

"My primary interests are for the child," he said, "when the agreement drawn up between the

The $10,868 damage suit of Nanie Williams, Portsmouth, against Anton Bros., Toledo, is expected to go to a common pleas court Thursday afternoon. Adkins, Jr., attorney for Mrs. Williams, said he may call one rebuttal witness before arguments are started.

The adjournment was made at the request of Herbert S. and Thomas J. Duffy, Columbus attorneys representing the Antonas. Herbert Duffy is Democratic nominee for attorney general.

John, Tony and George Anton, in cross petitions, ask $1,000 each as damages.

The case resulted from an automobile and track collision three miles north of Circleville on Route 23 last Sept. 15. Mrs. Williams sued for injuries.

ROOSEVELT AND HIS AIDES CITE HIGHER REVENUE

Decision Follows Confab In White House With Letter Disclosed

BUDGET TALK ASSAILED

Fairness To All Consumers Stressed by Leaders

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Administration tax experts decided at conference with President Roosevelt today that no new taxes will be necessary next session because of increasing revenues.

The gesture to answer business criticism of an unbalanced budget came after a meeting attended by Chairman Pat Harrison of the senate finance committee, Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., and Chairman Robert L. Doughton of the house ways and means committee.

"We have found business conditions improving so much and revenue receipts coming in so fast," said Harrison, "that we can postpone the point of a balanced budget sooner than expected."

No Boosts Needed

A letter to the president from Secretary Morgenthau was made public at the same time when said the treasury had concluded that no new taxes or increases in present tax rates are needed. It was hoped that the letter, at the latest session will be moving to the purpose, according to Morgenthau's letter "of removing any inequities" in present tax laws and modifying or ending taxes that "create unfairness to consumers or to trade or have other disadvantages which outweigh the revenue yield."

"With continued recovery," Morgenthau's letter said, "we are steadily approaching a revenue yield which will be entirely adequate to cover the expenditures of government and to reduce the public debt."

However, none of the three tax experts would predict when a balanced budget would be reached.

Harrison announced he will immediately call congressional tax experts into session to work with treasury experts to carry out the suggestions of Morgenthau. "Any change of course, would probably be toward reducing some taxes," he said, citing especially "taxes where administrative cost virtually wipes out revenue."

WAGE INCREASE FOR TOLEDO GAS WORKERS LOOMS

TOLEDO, Aug. 13.—(UP)—With a 25 percentage wage increase the only point blocking settlement of the gas strike, gas company representatives and employees were to meet today with the Toledo Industrial Peace Board for another conference.

Members of the gas employer's union voted two to one last night against acceptance of an accord reached by company representatives and union officials which met most of the union demands. Robert Pierce, president of the employees' union, said emergency crews would be permitted to continue at their posts, assuring the city of service for an unspecified length of time. He added that picketing would be resumed.

WEST COAST OPERATION TRIAL UNDER WAY TODAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Ann Cooper Hewitt, the "dollar princess," awaited a summons today to appear in superior court and testify against two doctors charged with conspiracy to commit mayhem in an operation depriving her of motherhood. While lesser figures in the case—built on a background of wealth and international society—figure in the opening of the trial, the principal actors, Ann, and her husband, Dr. J. H. Cooper, and a member, M. M. Maryann Cooper, and Dr. J. H. Cooper, avoided the

TO TAKE STRESS' DIARY TO END DISPUTE

by motion picture interests to end the case," Judge Knight said. "Any 'high pressuring' was placed on the principals involved, not the court."

The only hint the jurist would give as to his decision was that he thought any plan where one or the other parent got the child over week-ends was unsound.

"Rest assured that I will not 'rubber stamp' any agreement made by the attorneys," he said.

Miss Astor and Dr. Thorpe agreed finally of the future of their child late yesterday after two days of bickering and conferences between their attorneys that centered mostly around one point—the disposition of Miss Astor's diary, in which, in addition to professing her love for Kaufman, she expressed her admiration for Dr. Thorpe and confessed his rightness in many of their disagreements.

Disposition Solved

Miss Astor did not wish the diary to remain in her former husband's hands, lest it be used against her again. Dr. Thorpe wanted to keep it lest Miss Astor attempt again to obtain full custody of Marilyn. The solution was finally solved by a secret disposition that will prevent the fears of either party coming true.

"It is part of the agreement," Anderson said, "that no one, save the litigants, their counsel, and the court will ever know what becomes of the diary. It will always remain a mystery."

The agreement, drawn up by the lawyers and approved by Douglas L. Edmonds, presiding judge of the Los Angeles superior court, was understood to provide that Marilyn will be in her mother's custody during the school months, and that during all vacations, with the exception of Christmas, she will be in her father's charge. The parents will share the child during the Christmas holidays.

Her teachers, governesses and nurses will be selected by mutual consent of the parents, while her expenses will be shared by both at the discretion of Judge Knight's court.

Asked if he was happy with the compromise, Dr. Thorpe replied: "No, I'm not happy. How could I be happy? I'm glad, however, that this litigation has been stopped."

"All I can say is that I'm relieved," Miss Astor said.

The settlement of the custody case was expected to result in settlement of the other litigation resulting from their divorce in April, 1935. Miss Astor has sued to substitute an annulment for the doctor's divorce, for a readjustment of their property settlement and the guardianship of Marilyn, which was given to Thorpe under the divorce terms.

FARMERS OBTAIN $138 FROM $331 SPENT FOR FOOD

COLUMBUS, Aug. 13—Farmers in the United States received $138 out of the $331 spent in 1935 by the average working man in the city for a list of 58 foods, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Washington, D. C.

The difference between the money spent by the workingman for food and that received by its producer is the cost of transportation, processing, and distribution. In 1933, the workingman spent $264 for these foods and the farmer received 92 of that amount. City consumers spent larger sums of money for these quantities of the 58 foods in 14 of the years in the period 1913-35 than they did in 1935. Farmers received about equal amounts from the consumers expenditures for food in 1935 and in 1913. Retail prices were somewhat higher last year, but a portion of that increase is due to the greater amount of processing after the food leaves the farm than was customary in 1913.

John G. Winant, chairman of the Social Security Board, will review the first year's progress under Social Security over the National Broadcasting Company, Thursday, August 13, at 7 p. m.

The Social Security Act was passed by an overwhelming and non-partisan vote of Congress and became law on August 14, 1935. Every state and territory of the United States is receiving three or more of the nine benefits now possible under the Social Security Act—several states are co-operating in all nine benefits.

Winant, chairman of the non-partisan Social Security Board, has long been identified with the movement toward Social Security. He was two terms Governor of New Hampshire, a member of both houses of that state's Legislature, and before accepting his present office was a representative of the United States in the International Labor office.

Faces Death Again

Mrs. DOROTHY SHERWOOD who was sentenced to die in the electric chair for the drowning of her two-year-old son and then given a respite shortly before the execution date, is pictured as she appeared in court at Newburgh, N. Y. Mrs. Sherwood, who maintained she drowned her son "to keep from starving", refused to plead guilty to a manslaughter charge and must again stand trial on first degree murder charges, Sept. 14. Thousands urged that Mrs. Sherwood be given a new trial, saying she had been unjustly convicted.

DECISION IN HOG ACTION CARRIED TO HIGHER COURT

Notice that a decision of Judge J. W. Adkins of common pleas court concerning 90 hogs involved in the Carl Cross receivership would be appealed to the court of appeals was filed in common pleas court Wednesday by E. L. Crist, attorney for the Columbus Production Credit Association.

Gilbert Dowden, Wayne township, asked the hogs be released from a levy made by the sheriff. The court released the hogs. The question involved was a sale agreement between Cross and Dowden, Mr. Crist explained. It is understood Cross expected to purchase the hogs but before a settlement was completed the levy was made. Motion for a new trial was overruled by Judge Adkins.

NATION MARKS

'37 PHONE BILL

Tariff Sharply Reduced On
All Types Of Long
Distance Calls

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13—(UP)—The American public will spend 150,000,000 fewer nickels for telephone service next year as a result of savings effected when the $5,000,000,000 Bell System reduces its tariff rates.

It is estimated, all told that when the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and its associates have finished revisions on existing tolls the public will have received an annual phone bill reduction of $7,350,000 based on 1936 business.

Reductions Started in 1926
By filing a lower tariff schedule on certain types of calls with the Federal Communication Commission, the A. T. & T. made the last of a series of moves started in 1926 to make less expensive to the public the use of the successor to Alexander Graham Bell's flimsy "electric ear."

The first reduction in recent years was effected a decade ago and the last sizable one was filed on Jan. 1, 1930. At that time, charges on calls over less than 200 miles were slightly reduced. Last Jan. 15, the company extended discounts on night calls to Sundays and saved telephone users an estimated $3,000,000 annually.

The most recent reductions follow the hammer-and-tongs investigation of the corporation by the government.

Hearings to Continue
The Federal Communications Commission has delved into every operation of the A. T. & T. during a series of lengthy hearings which will be continued this fall.

The reduced rates under the Sept. 1 schedule cut prices for long-distance calls and person-to-person charges for long conversations.

METAL TEETH DEvised FROM JUNKED CYCLE

WOMBEWELL, Eng. (UP)—False teeth made from an old motorcycle crank case are the crowning climax of a life of dental experimentation by Albert Orwin, road-worker living in the village of Jump, near here.

First Orwin tried his ingenuity on the knuckle bone of a leg of mutton but the bone was not big enough.

Then he tried using a billiard ball which, however, had the same defect, the diameter being only two and a half inches.

Success came when he melted down the aluminum from the crank case of the old motorcycle. The melted aluminum was run into an "impression" which he had taken himself.

Even so, this set is only for every-day use.

On Sundays his smile reveals a "perfect" set made from the aluminum screw tops of old thermos flasks.

ROTARIANS PLAN
DISTRICT RALLY
IN CHILLICOTHE

A group of Circleville Rotarians will go to Chillicothe Monday and Tuesday for the convention of the 22nd district of Rotary International to be held in the Elks' hall.

Thomas J. Summers, Marietta attorney, is district governor and will preside at the assembly. Visitors will be welcomed Monday by Arthur M. Howson, president of the Chillicothe club.

Among those from Circleville who will attend the sessions are Karl J. Herrmann, president, and Charles T. Gilmore, secretary.

2 MORE CALVES ARRIVE ON FARM OF COUNTY MAN

Is it the water?

Pickaway county highway employees hauling water to the farm of William Stalter, Monroe township, are beginning to wonder.

FLORIDA REAPS
CITRUS PROFITS

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 13—(UP)—With the last carload of fruit of the 1935-1936 crop shipped out of the state, Florida citrus growers have computed their profits and find that they are approximately $25,000,000 richer than they were when the season opened.

The citrus exchange here estimated the value of the total crop at $65,000,000 and charged off an estimated $40,000,000 for picking, packing and shipping. The remaining $25,000,000 net, they reported, is an unusually high profit for a staple crop in days of unsettled market conditions.

They reported a gross increase of $4,436,000 in the year's orange crop, which in volume was no larger than the 1934-1935 crop. Prices, however, averaged 41 cents a box higher than the previous year with an average auction value of $2.97.

The grapefruit crop was worth $406,665 more this year than last year.

Proportionately, the largest increase was in the value of the tangerine crop.

This year's shipments were worth $5,009,000, or $1,036,000 more than last year.

The total increase in value of all citrus crops was $7,879,000.

JAPAN IMPOSES SPECIAL TAXES
IN RAIL ZONE

DAIREN, (UP)—Conclusion of the Japan-Manchukuo extraterritoriality treaty has been followed by imposition of special taxes upon Japanese residing in the South Manchuria Railway zone.

It was announced that imposition of the taxes was necessary to equalize the tax burden of Japanese within and without the zone. The extraterritoriality exempted Japanese within the zone from Manchukuo taxes until 1938.

The taxes collected from Japanese in the railway zone go to the Japanese imperial government. Japanese outside the zone pay their taxes to Manchukuo.

There are 150 categories of taxation in the new order, which became effective July 1, including levies on money and property lending, sale and manufacture of commodities, electric and gas supply, theatrical and other public amusement businesses, printing and publishing, restaurants, public bathhouses, barbers and hotels.

FRUIT GROWERS
TRY NEW SALES
PLAN IN STATE

COLUMBUS, Aug. 13 — Fruit and vegetable growers in three northeastern Ohio counties will start a new venture in marketing their products with the opening of the Lake Shore Fruit Growers Cooperative Auction, Friday, August 14.

Two hundred members have formed the association to try this method of selling fruit and vegetables. The sales room is three miles west of Geneva and the growers live in Lake, Geauga, and Ashtabula counties in Ohio and in Erie county, Pennsylvania. The officers of the organization are: E. C. McKibben, Ashtabula, president; Wm. Seith, Perry, vice-president; S. S. Lehman, Girard, Pa., secretary and R. W. Gunn, Madison; T. L. White, Mentor, and M. A. Ring, Conneaut, directors.

Members bring their produce to the sales building three days each week and each load of produce is sold to the highest bidder. J. V. Meeder, Girard, Pa., is auctioneer. Goods are sold in the order that they arrive at the sales building and each grower receives the money for his own produce. This feature of the sales will tend to encourage growers to sell only first quality goods.

Supervision of the market to insure compliance with federal and state regulations will be furnished by the federal inspector for the district and by members of the state department of agriculture. Sales are made only for members of the state department of agriculture.

ture. Sales are made only for members of the association but any grower can become a member. Before starting this organization, delegates from the communities visited fruit and vegetable auctions in Pennsylvania and in New Jersey and observed selling methods used there.

Henry county farmers are getting some advance information on the supply, prices, and other factors that may affect the feeding of lambs this fall and winter. County agricultural agent E. H. Bond says that 10,000 western lambs and 5,000 natives were fed in the county last winter.

RACES OF WORLD GROWING TALLER

LONDON, Aug. 13.—(UP)—The human race is growing taller.

That conclusion has been reached after a study of human growth over a number of years, details of which are given in the current issue of the "British Medical Journal."

Children of today, according to the experience of many countries, it is said, compare favorably with children the same ages before the war; and a tendency to increase of growth long has been observed.

Figures for measurements of mark, Holland, Switzerland and recruits in Norway, Sweden, Denmark over a period of years all show an increase in weight also.

Even in Japan measurements on students record increases of growth while it is recalled that in the United States there has been a slight increase in growth during the last 80 years.

"In general, however," it is stated, "the bodily build of both sexes has tended to become slimmer, especially for women in the region of the hips, an observation also made in Germany."

This change is attributed primarily to environmental influences, including general improvement in hygiene, improvement in average diets and the result of sports and gymnasium work.

"It is noticeable," adds the report, "that the inhabitants of countries in general are bigger than countrymen. Those of the North bigger than those of the South. Hence one can hardly attribute the change to the effect of sunlight, which some have occasionally regarded as the primary factor of growth."

Wouldn't it be a joke if Switzerland, with 3,000,000 population of a sort and not much else, including the League of Nations, were to be swallowed up by one of the neighboring dictators, "in the interest of civilization?"

There is no doubt that the Italian people have been getting clear, accurate and unbiased accounts of happenings at Geneva from the Italian "journalists" who booed Halle Selassie when he took the floor.

Harlow's Turtle Soup Gone; Betz is Worried

Knock, knock.
"Who's there," inquired Mr. Betz.
"Wanda," said Fred Harlow.
"Wanda who."

"Wanda who took the last two gallons of the best turtle soup I ever made, and your kettle," Mr. Harlow explained.

A mystery surrounds the disappearance of the soup. The sportsmen believe the kettle may be returned but they hold little hope for the soup. Both disappeared Wednesday evening from the basement of the Betz restaurant.

At least thirty local sportsmen sampled the soup Wednesday afternoon and evening. Some took it in relays. It was a special brand mixed by Fred Harlow, Newark, district conservation officer, made from a 17-pound turtle he purchased at Buckeye Lake.

Prepared by Betz.
Mr. Harlow took the turtle to the restaurant where it was dressed by Mr. Betz and Harry Timmons. The assistant cooks reported Betz wore off the turtle's neck with a meat cleaver.

Betz and Harlow spent the afternoon making the soup. They were assisted by Clarence Francis, local game officer, and Clarence Hiller, Fairfield county officer.

The men said they used 12 cans of tomatoes and just "tossed in" some corn, onions, beans and celery and plenty of seasoning. When the soup was completed they had five gallons. "It's the first turtle soup I've made this summer and the best I've ever made," Harlow said.

The turtle meat was stewed, then fried in butter. Two waiters in the restaurant were kept busy supplying consumers with soup, crackers and water.

Betz bemoaned the fact he was served only three bowls of the soup. It disappeared while he was home resting for another soup-eating session. "It is the first time anything has ever been taken from the basement of my restaurant," Betz said.

No Crow Eating.
Mr. Harlow plans to hold future soup dinners here but he refuses to take part in any crow-eating affairs being considered by local sportsmen.

The life of the average song hit is considerably shortened, says a radio survey. It is progress, even if we can still hear it.

A fast-moving story of adventure, intrigue and romance, unspoiled by emphasis on the melodramatic, is presented in the picture which plays Today at the Cliftona theatre; "The Return of Sophie Lang," with Gertrude Michael playing the title role.

A successor to the film of two years ago which introduced Sophie to screen audience, "The Notorious Sophie Lang," the picture picks up the yarn of the lovely lifter of jewels and hearts at a date several years after the close of the first story.

Sophie Lang, believed dead, in reality is in hiding. She has given up her light-fingered ways and has become the trusted companion of an elderly, wealthy collector of gems, Elizabeth Patterson. Her former companion in crime, Sir Guy Standing, has returned to his old ways after spending several years in prison.

The story is woven about the operations of two women lawyers, who after nearly starving to death as honest and upright barristers, decide the whole game is one of tricks and go in for criminal law, becoming rich and successful as the "mouthpieces" of a band of racketeers.

A successor to the film of two years ago which introduced Sophie to screen audience, "The Notorious Sophie Lang," the picture picks up the yarn of the lovely lifter of jewels and hearts at a date several years after the close of the first story.

Sophie Lang, believed dead, in reality is in hiding. She has given up her light-fingered ways and has become the trusted companion of an elderly, wealthy collector of gems, Elizabeth Patterson. Her former companion in crime, Sir Guy Standing, has returned to his old ways after spending several years in prison.

AT THE GRAND
"The Law in Her Hands," the First National comedy drama, which was shown at the Grand theatre yesterday for the first time locally, is a thoroughly entertaining picture, crammed full of thrilling incidents, fast action, hilarious comedy situations and a glamorous romance.

The story is woven about the operations of two women lawyers, who after nearly starving to death as honest and upright barristers, decide the whole game is one of tricks and go in for criminal law, becoming rich and successful as the "mouthpieces" of a band of racketeers.

AT THE CLIFTONA
A fast-moving story of adventure, intrigue and romance, unspoiled by emphasis on the melodramatic, is presented in the picture which plays Today at the Cliftona theatre; "The Return of Sophie Lang," with Gertrude Michael playing the title role.

BUSINESS LIFE EXPECTANCY
A SUBJECT of perhaps little if any less general interest than that of life expectancy itself is business life expectancy.
 This is true, of course, for women as well as men. Accordingly, it is likely that women in business, many of them at any rate, will find time to read the report by the American Woman's Association on a survey of the depression's effects on business and professional women from 1929 to 1936.

From 1350 answers to a questionnaire, the association's researchers concluded that women over 40 made more money and lost fewer jobs in these years than did their younger sisters. The women reporting the top salaries, $6,000 to $10,000 and over, averaged 50 years or over. Fifteen per cent of those under 40 experienced unemployment in the five-year period as against only 9 per cent of those over 40. That side of the picture for the business or professional woman over 40 is pretty encouraging. There is another side not so cheering:
 when a woman over 40 loses her job her chance of getting another one is pretty slim.

For the young woman who is starting out in a business and professional career, the association draws from its survey this first commandment: Establish yourself before you are 30 in a position that will lead to your ultimate goal. Finish your flitting from flower to flower while still in the twenties. From 30 on you must devote yourself to the single-minded climb upward "on the same job or to a better one in the same organization, if a high salary, a position of security, influence and prestige in the business or professional world is to be attained."

NO SPINSTERS
LIKE the Aztecs and Amazons, the "old maids" are a vanished race. A literary searching party sent into the field for the latter by one of the woman's magazines found some evidences that they once existed and traced some legends that have been handed down from generation to generation.

There are still unmarried ladies of past marrying age, but they are no longer spoken of as spinsters, contemplated sadly, made the brunt of derisive wit, nor found to conceal their state as something disgraceful and unblended.

Time was when the unmarried woman over 30 kept very quiet about her "single blessedness." Now she proclaims it aloud and aloft. Of old it was hurt pride that made old maids profess preference for their lonely existence. Today many women are sincere in protestations of that sort.

PRESIDENT PLANS 'SHOW BOAT' TRIP

WASHINGTON—The President's forthcoming dust-bowl trip will be quite a circus, and the conference with Governor Landon is only one of the acts.
 The President has a big surprise up his sleeve. It is a spectacular "show boat" journey down the Mississippi River on one of the vessels of the Government's inland water fleet.

Accompanied by three or four members of his Cabinet, conservation experts, and a large entourage of reporters and camera men, the President plans to steam down the river and make numerous stops on the way.

The trip will start at Minneapolis and go as far south as Memphis, Tenn. Among the cities to be visited will be St. Louis, Cairo, Ill., Dubuque, Iowa, and La Crosse, Wis. It is also possible that from Memphis the President may retrace his steps to Cairo and go up the Ohio for stops at Louisville, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh.

En route the President will invite state and local officials to accompany him. At the various stops he will hold conferences and "say a few words" to the assembled populace.

STRAW BALLOTS

The Democratic campaign high command is preparing a blast against election polls.

The straw ballots have been getting in the New Dealers' hair. They assert most of them are loaded against the regime, that their real purpose is not to obtain an accurate sample of public sentiment but to propagandize against the Administration.

A group of statisticians have been checking up on various national and local polls, and their findings will shortly be unloaded in a nationwide radio speech by a top-rug New Dealer.

One poll that will come in for a vigorous drubbing is the one conducted by The Farm Journal. This is an old publication that last Spring was bought by Joseph N. Pew, of Philadelphia, multi-millionaire head of the Sun Oil Co., and one of the "Big Three" Republican bosses of Pennsylvania.

In the announcement of the first returns of its poll, The Farm Journal credited Governor Landon with receiving 54.7 per cent of the rural vote as against 45 per cent for Roosevelt.

But the New Dealers say that a close study of the farm paper's figures revealed these discrediting facts:

social revolution. Emancipation of womanhood contributed. Industrial independence and virtual equality between the sexes in business helped remove the old-maid stigma.
 The changed economic order which placed millions of women in a better position to support a husband than millions of men are in to support a wife added fuel to the feminist's fire.

Sentimentalists who weep for the old and decry the new will concede, at least, that abolition of the bondage of spinsterhood was a humanitarian stroke.

Love isn't Important

By LOUISE JERROLD
 COPYRIGHT L. C. PAGE & CO., INC., RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:
 Gay Elwell, check girl in a prom-ent Detroit club, meets a number of social elite when she fills in at a dinner party at the request of Dr. Wilson, a club member. One is Brock Carter who is very friendly toward Gay; another, Wayne Adams who is both interested and annoyed by her; and then Christian Scott and Tim Keanan, two millionaires. Tim takes her to his suburban estate and makes suggestions which Gay resents. Tim talks of his engagement to Eleanor Randolph and Gay counters with her philosophy of marriage. Gay agrees to show great interest in Tim to arouse Eleanor's jealousy and hasten her return from Europe. Mark Vance, artist, whom Gay is posing in the evenings, discusses Brock and Wayne.
 (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 21
"BROCK CARTER'S in with Mr. Adams—sort of a partner or something, isn't he?" Gay asked Mark Vance.
 The artist nodded, munching a sandwich.
 "Righto. They've both invested every cent they could get their hands on. Brock's always struck me as sort of a lightweight, but Ad swears by him. Claims he's the most skillful pilot in the country, even though he looks and acts like a kid."
 "He's a wild Indian, that Carter boy," Charlotte Vance remarked, as she refilled the coffee cups.
 "Listen, Mark. Did you hear what he did to Peggy, the other day? Had an engagement to take her to lunch, and never showed up till next day. Said he was flying, and forgot! Was she furious?"
 "Peggy," observed the artist, "is a badly spoiled young lady. All her life people have been knowing before her, on account of her money. Now she's in love with a chap who has brains enough to keep her guessing, and it's just what she needs. Remember how I treated you, Charlotte?
 The same thing, exactly!" He winked at Gay. "And how you loved it! The more I shoved you off, the harder you came after me!"

"Idiot!" jeered Mrs. Vance, affectationally. And then, to Gay,
 "We're frightfully selfish, keeping you here while we gossip about people you're not the least bit interested in. Mark, pay the child her money, and let her go. We've got to be getting home ourselves."
 For two afternoons following,
 Gay came to the studio and posed in the bathing costume. Then she changed to day-duty at the club, and telephoned Mark Vance to tell him she could pose only in the evening.

"Let's call it off for tonight," Mark suggested. "Charlotte and I are going to the theater. But be at the studio at eight promptly, Friday evening."
 On Friday, therefore, as soon as Jean arrived to take charge of the courtroom, Gay hurriedly scrambled out of her uniform and into street clothes, and was on her way. As she came out into the street from the employees' entrance, she noticed a roadster parked close to the curb, under the arc light. She was about to walk past, when a familiar, drawing voice hailed her.

"Why the rush? Don't you even speak to me any more?"
 She stopped short. "Hello, Brock. I didn't recognize you."
 He had stepped out, and was smiling at her, hand extended.
 "I've waited half an hour to talk to you. Get in the car."
 Gay paused. "I'm sorry you waited. I haven't time to stop."
 Brock repeated, "Get in the car.
 I have a little bone to pick with you. I'll drive you home, and we can talk on the way."

"But I'm not going home."
 "Where are you going?"
 "To Mr. Vance's studio, up on Rowena. I'm posing for him."
 Brock hesitated for only an instant. "I'll drive you there. . .
 Whereabouts on Rowena?" Gay told him, and added that she must be there in 20 minutes.
 "Come along, then. You needn't be afraid I'm going to kidnap you.

 I have a date with Peggy for nine o'clock and I intend to keep it."
 His voice was impatient. "Let's go."
 Yielding, Gay climbed into the roadster, and as it gathered speed, said demurely, "I'm grateful for the lift. This is lots nicer than the Woodward street cars. They bump so!"
 "Do they?" Brock was sardonic. "Well, they couldn't bump you half as hard as I'd like to.
 Let's get down to cases, Gay.
 What's the big idea of the run-around you've been giving me?"
 Gay slid down farther in the seat, relaxing comfortably. "I'm so tired, Brock. Please don't be cross. And I don't know what you mean by 'run-around'."

He looked straight ahead, slowing down for the changing lights at the intersection of Woodward and Forest avenues. "Why don't you answer the letters I've written you? Why haven't you phoned?
 Is all this coy stuff just a come-on game, or are you really off me?"
 The traffic light flashed to green,
 and the roadster darted off again, narrowly escaping collision with a cruising taxi. "Maybe you think I enjoy saying sappy things like this! Why, woman—I've never groveled to anyone in all my life!
 Never had to! If someone had told me a month ago, that I'd be chasing a girl this way, I'd have laughed my head off."
 He turned sharply off Woodward avenue, and slowed up by the curb.
 The side street was dark and quiet.
 Brock turned off the ignition.
 "I can't talk and drive. Let's have it out, right here and now.
 Are you sore at me because I go around with Peggy?"
 Gay smiled. "I don't care if you see Peggy Pennell every night in the week."

"Then why are you peeved at me?"
 "Do you want the truth?"
 "Shoot the works!"
 "All right, then," Gay faced him. How good-looking he was, and how well he knew it! "I liked you a lot the first time I met you, Brock. But that other night—when you took me to the speaking! That was awful! I don't go in for wrestling matches. It's no fun for a girl to go out with a man, and be mauled to pieces."
 Brock muttered, "I've told you
 I've written you—that I'm sorry.
 Other girls wouldn't raise such a yelp over nothing—"
 "No, wait!" Gay interrupted.
 "The whole thing is this, Brock.
 When they told you I was a Miss Smith, the daughter of a friend of Doctor Wilson's, you behaved pretty well. But afterward, when you found out I was just a check girl, how you changed! You thought you could do anything you wanted—tear my clothes off, even, if that would amuse you! As she recalled that rowdy struggle on the chaise longue, Gay trembled with indignation.
 "I did not tear your clothes off!
 I mean—I—" Brock grinned.
 "Good Lord above, did I really?"
 he added, with unaffected interest and surprise.
 "You tried to!"
 Against her will, Gay smiled, too. You couldn't stay angry with Brock; there was something so boyish about that shamefaced grin of his.

"But don't you see how you hurt my pride?" she asked. "I'm not a cheap little—"
 "Just a minute, honey," Brock lifted his hand. "If I thought you were cheap, I'd never have bothered dating you up. I didn't intend to get so rough—but I had a drink or two more than I could handle, and things happened. I don't even remember what I did, but whatever it was, I'm sorry. I apologized before, and I apologize again."
 "And I give you my word, Gay,

with all my faults I'm not a snob.
 Whether a girl is Junior league, or a Follies graduate, I treat her exactly the same. You believe me when I say that, don't you, sweetness?"

There was a note of sincerity in Brock's voice, and Gay nodded.
 "I guess so."

"And you'll excuse me for being such a roughneck that other night,
 if I swear it won't happen again?
 You'll go out with me, if I treat you with great respect, and sit way off from you, like this?" As Brock finished the question, he moved far off, to the extreme edge of the seat.

Gay couldn't help laughing.
 "Don't be so silly! You won't have to keep quite that far away from me!"

"That's the way we sit, and that's the way we dance, from now on," he assured her. "Honey, you're dynamite. When I get any closer, I go haywire. Look! I drew a trifle nearer. You can see for yourself: I quiver in every limb, as they say in the movies. And when I put my arm around you, like this, I lose all control—like a 1917 DeHavilland in an air pocket!"

Gay removed his arm. "You're nice enough," she remarked,
 "when you want to be."
 "Nice yourself!" Brock responded. He leaned toward her.
 "Silly, don't you realize I'm completely goofy over you? That it's hard as the devil to make myself behave when I'm near you? If I had a brain in my head, I'd run when I see you coming, instead of chasing after you! I was all set with Peggy, until you came along.
 Liked her fine. She's not such a bad kid, you know. But now I've got you on my mind, I can't see Peg for dust."

He looked into Gay's eyes. "Girl, what is this strange power you have over me?"

"My fatal beauty!" Gay murmured, and they laughed together.

"Then Gay noticed the clock on the dashboard, and gave a cry of dismay.
 "Three minutes of eight! Brock, hurry, or I'll be late for my appointment!"

"Darn your appointments," he complained disgustedly, but at Gay's insistence he pressed the starter, and the car purred smoothly up the street again toward the bright haze of lights that was Woodward avenue.

"Honey, I'd rather spend an evening with you, than with any other girl in the world. You've got 'em all stopped."

His free hand met and held Gay's, but nothing more was said till they drew up before the studio building. Then, as he helped her out, "I reckon I'll be seeing you tomorrow night at Ada's party. But I won't be able to dance with you often. Peggy'll be there; and when I say that child's jealous, I mean! You understand how I'm placed, don't you, precious?"

Gay nodded. "That's quite all right," she assured him, coolly.
 "It's not all right. I hate it.
 But business is business, honey lamb, and I can't afford to get in wrong with the Pennells."
 As he spoke, Gay remembered what Mark Vance had said:
 "Charlie Pennell can't make up his mind, whether or not to come in on the deal."

Of course, Brock had to play safe. A breakup with Peggy at this time would undoubtedly spoil everything. She couldn't exactly blame Brock for the careful game he and Wayne Adams were playing. But still—
 "We'll have a little private date next week, just you and I," Brock was saying, as he got back into the car. "Good night, Beautiful!"
 And before Gay could answer, he was gone.

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:
 Up after a coolish night to find the sun hard at work toward another day of heat, which did not like, for of hot weather have had an ample supply, although generally favoring Summer over Winter. Thought in the evening that did hear a katydid forecasting six weeks until frost, but may have been mistaken. Anyway, do not place much faith in those insects as weather prophets for they almost invariably fail. Or is it we who fail for crediting such nonsense?
 Here is Vernon Bolender from his farm on Route 5 and who is generally optimistic as regards the trend of affairs. Says most farmers will have as much money this Fall as they had last year despite and because of the drought. Their crops have been set, but prices have mounted. Called attention to the price of corn and corn as well as the money received for wheat. There is one Mader whose gift shop seems so much attention.
 Near how Dora Wilson came to the city from the Country Club run out of gasoline, thumbed a ride with a farmer and rode to town with the man and three kids in the front seat, the rear compartment being occupied by a big hog and Mrs. Wilson knew not how many pigs. A closed car at that.
 Did learn from Max Friedman how Theodore Friedman came to be known as Ted Lewis. Many years ago a vaudeville team known as Lewis and Lewis played the various circuits. One Lewis quit the act and the remaining member called on Theodore Friedman to take his place and Theodore Friedman became Ted Lewis, making the name world famous and remaining a constant booster for his native village.
 Here comes Paul McGinnis, of Kingston, back from a summer vacation along Brevort lake in Michigan and declaring that he caught fish almost as large as the one pictured on a post card sent to this scrivener. Honored by a call by Sam Rader, showing him through the plant from stem to stern, getting much pleasure out of explaining the many devices by which a newspaper is printed. There goes Bob Brehmer. Regret that did not live in the village when Bob was inclined toward motorcycles. From all that hear those must have been exciting and somewhat hazardous times.
 Cooled off considerably in the latter part of the day as listened to Ed Mason tell of his first employment, pilot of a horse drawn bread wagon back in the days when winters were winters. The day started at 5:30 in the morning and ended when the work was done. The length of the day reminded me somewhat of the work hours of a friend of a few years back who when asked about his hours of labor replied "from daylight until unconscious." Ed declares work is a habit, and it must be, for he remains hard at it despite warnings to go slowly. Has a variation of an old expression, his being that "it is difficult for an old dog to forget old tricks."
 Home through the cool of the day for a country style dinner, a pleasant hour on the porch and then off to the movies, afterward a short ride to dispose of an ice cream cone and then to bed at a reasonable hour.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief Of Pain

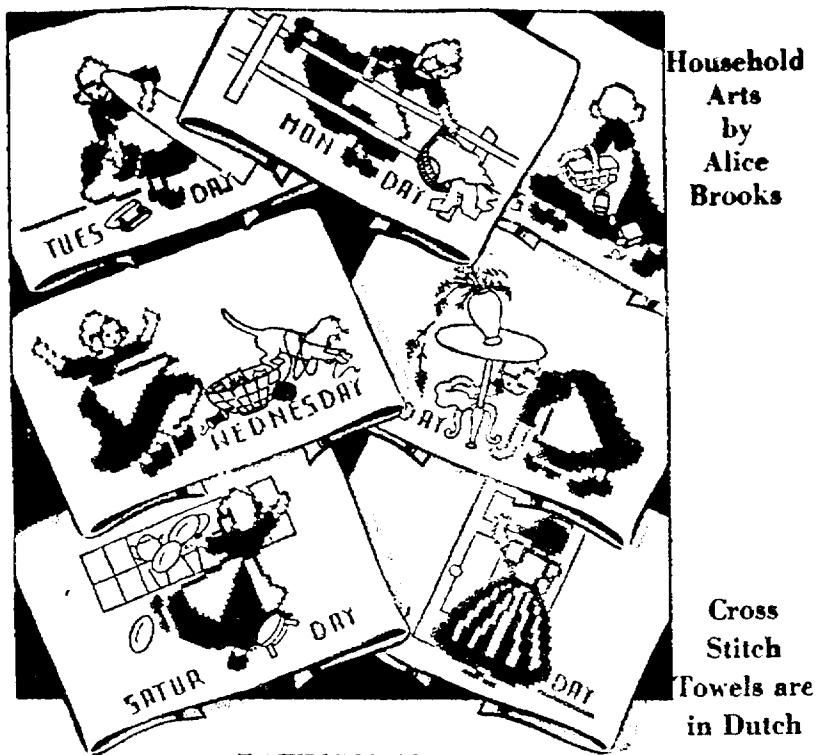

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 8 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing.

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills—which have been used successfully for over 40 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills.

JOHNNY MIZE'S CLUBBING KEEPS CARDINALS ON TOP NATIONAL HEAP

YOUNG CLOUTER ENDS TILT WITH CHICAGO, 5 TO 3

New York Wins Thriller From Brooklyn; Yanks Resume Activity

NEW YORK, Aug. 13 (UP)—Johnny Mize, sensational young first baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals, appeared today to be outdistancing Joe DiMaggio, pride of the New York Yankees, for the honor of being called "prize rookie of 1938."

While "Dinag" and the Yankees are coasting toward an American league pennant in rather unexciting fashion, Mize is playing a major batting role in the Cardinals' knock-down-drag-out fight for the national league flag.

In the final skirmish yesterday, which saw the Cardinals beating the Cubs 5-3 to recapture first place by a game, it was Johnny's lone run with two on in the sixth that routed Larry French and saved up the decision.

New York's Giants won a 12-inning verdict from the Brooklyn Dodgers to move within 2½ games of the second-place Cubs. It was a pitching battle between Frank Gabler and Van Mungo, Gabler winning his own game with a 12th-inning triple scoring two runs. Pittsburgh defeated Cincinnati, 6-1, and the Boston Bees defeated Philadelphia 4-2, in other national league games.

The Yankees, with Jake Powell as lead off man in a revised lineup, emerged from a brief batting slump to defeat Washington, 11-7, in the American league. The Detroit Tigers defeated Cleveland, 7-4, and the Indians fell 11½ games behind New York. Vernon Kennedy pitched his 16th victory as the Chicago White Sox defeated St. Louis, 8-3. The Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia Athletics split a doubleheader. Boston took the opener, 6-4. Philadelphia won the nightcap, 6-0 behind Harry Kelley's three-hit pitching.

YESTERDAY'S HERO: — Wes Ferrell, besides registering his 15th victory, he batted in all his team's runs with two circuit clouts — one with the bases loaded — as the Boston Red Sox defeated Philadelphia, 6-4.

22 CONCRETE PAVEMENT ENDS

For Safety's sake PAVE THE GAPS WITH Concrete

Why do state highway departments warn the public: "Concrete pavement ends?" Because it is universally accepted that speeds which are reasonable and safe on concrete become dangerous on other surfaces. To save lives, to prevent accidents . . . demand concrete all the way. True and even, it has no high crown — is usable to its full width. Brakes are at their best on its gritty non-skid surface. Its light gray color and sharply defined edges give high visibility at night. Any car is a better car on concrete. And concrete saves money for motorists and for taxpayers. Insist on concrete for your roads.

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 13 (UP)—Young Gibson White's bay filly, Rosalind, reigned the outstanding harness three-year-old of 1936 to four following her record-shattering victory in the Hambletonian stake, greatest of all trotting races.

The daughter of Scotland-Alma-Lee showed her heels to none of the fastest three-year-olds in training as she won the $35,643 classic in straight heats of 2 minutes 1½ seconds and 2:02½ — the two fastest times ever put together in the stake. A crowd of 45,000 roared its approval.

Ben White, wearing the black and white silks of his son, Gibson White, piloted Rosalind to the $18,669 first prize money and became the first driver in the 11 years of Hambletonian history to win the classic twice. He won with Mary Reynolds in 1933.

ESHELMAN CREW HITS HARD, WINS FROM OILS, 7 TO 1

Eshelman Feeds climbed out of undisputed possession of the cellar Wednesday evening dropping the Circleville Oils a notch in the softball league when Carl Purcell pitched his team to a 7 to 1 victory.

Four runs in the fourth and three in the fifth clinched the game for the Feeds. The Oils had few runners on the bases.

Circleville Oils, winners of the first half title, were without the services of Hegele, Reger, Trimmer and Brungs. Geib, pitching for the Oils, was touched freely by the winners.

Tonight Circleville Oils and Cities Service Oils tangle with Jaggy Davis to hurl for the east enders.

REDS TO MEET CHICAGO CUBS TWICE SUNDAY

CINCINNATI, Aug. 13 — The Chicago Cubs, who have been threading in and out of first and second place in the National League standings recently, visit Crosley Field during the next few days in another effort to "take the Reds in stride." Four games will be played with single games Friday and Saturday and a double-header Sunday. Up to the present moment the Reds have battled the Cubs on even terms. The Redlegs stepped ahead of the Cardinals on their season's series a few days ago, and now Charley Dressen's men hope to take a majority of the Chicago series, which would enable them to step ahead of the Cubs on the season's count.

BLUES SLIP UP ON A. A. LEADERS WITH TWO WINS

BY UNITED PRESS
The Kansas City Blues, rallying with timely hitting, slipped up on the league leading teams yesterday with two victories over the last place Louisville Colonels.

The double hit gave the Blues a decided edge over Minneapolis, as the Millers fell in an extra-inning affair with Toledo. The Blues won 6 to 3 and 7 to 3, with Niggeling and Vance carrying the pitching honors.

The Millers lost 8 to 11 to a battling Mud Hen club in a game that was nip-and-tuck until the 11th inning. The Hens smashed Olson in the first for six runs, then couldn't stop the Hens. The leading Milwaukee Brewers hurled. Two other Miller hurlers beat Indianapolis 7 to 5, making managed to reach Grabowski after he had put in ten innings of relief in two in a row over the Indians, who made a bid recently for first division.

Second place St. Paul used Rigney to play a shutout performance against the Columbus Red Birds, offsetting two defeats at the hands of the Birds. The score was 4 to 0. Rigney allowed only 7 hits.

About This And That In Many Sports

Soldiers to Return

Softball competition will be resumed in earnest next week when members of several teams, now in camp in Kentucky, return for action. The Eagles, benefitted by having several games scheduled the week before the camp started, have not suffered by loss of players since they have not met a foe in the last two weeks. Other teams, notably the Circleville Oils and Cities Service Oils, have been handicapped, the former by loss of their only pitcher, Bill Hegele, and the latter by loss of Center Fielder Rich Smalley.

Shorts Runs Out

Failure of Harry Short to get in the money in the Hambletonian, feature harness race, disappointed many of his Pickaway county followers. Rosalind, picked weeks ago as the probable winner, came through in straight heats of 2:02½ and 2:01½ to win. Short's horse, Gaiety Mite, finished last. Gaiety Mite will probably run in the Ohio state fair classic, and so will Rosalind.

Power to Cardinals

More power to the Cardinals — This column is for the St. Louis outfit and its rowdiness, despite Sam Breadon and his low wage program. Any crew that possesses Pepper Martin, Leo Durocher, Diz Dean, Terry Moore and Joe Medwick is good enough for the janitor. It's a thrill to watch Durocher light into his teammates about bonehead plays. Leo, you know, is about the best shortstop in anybody's league, and he is the Cardinal captain. What Leo says goes while the team is on the field. Old St. Johnson, discarded by the Reds, hurled the Cards to a 5-3 victory over the Cub ace, Larry French, Wednesday. Johnson was hit hard and often, but home runs by Johnny Mize and Ducky Medwick did the trick. This Mize boy seems to have won a position, too, replacing Ripper Collins, who is good enough for any other club in the league. Ripper may become an outfielder.

LEE GAMBLE, Macon, Ga., South Atlantic league player, is the latest to be hailed as another "Ty Cobb." Lee, in his first pro game, hit safely four times and stole two bases.

Lewis Stone to Make First Appearance on Radio Saturday Eve

ERWIN TO HAVE PART IN AIRING; JOE MARTY, TOO

Rookie Baseball Player Sought by 13 Major League Managers

Lewis Stone, one of the few remaining top-flight film stars who has never been heard on the radio, will make his first appearance at a microphone in Chateau next Saturday. In addition Ballew presents Stuart Erwin, the comedian who also plays "tough guys" on occasion, in a brand new role — that of a Hollywood reporter; and Joe Marty, star outfielder of the San Francisco team in the Pacific Coast League. The all-star variety show will be broadcast over a WEAF-NBC network at 8:30 p. m. (EST). Stone has played scores of roles in the films, both talkies and silent, and is one of the most popular character actors in Hollywood both with the fans and his fellow stars. He is one of the very rare personalities of the screen who hasn't yet done a part on the air. Ballew has been trying for some time to get him to a microphone in Chateau and this week he has succeeded.

Stu Erwin is not a newcomer to radio as an actor but he does appear in a brand new role this week. Instead of playing drama or a straight comedy sketch Erwin will masquerade as the "Rumbling Reporter" of Hollywood giving exclusive comedy flashes on the great and near great of the studios. Joe Marty is the outstanding rookie of this season in the Pacific Coast League. In his first year as an outfielder of the San Francisco

Seals, Marty has been hailed as the league's leading player and as another Jo Di Maggio, the player who came up from the Seals to the New York Yankees this season.

Stu Erwin will interview Marty, whose services are now being sought by no less than thirteen major league teams. Music by Victor Young's orchestra, songs by Smith Ballew and the Golden Shell Girls, complete the show.

F.D.R. IS READY TO START TOUR OF THREE DAYS

Two Or Three Speeches Planned On Visits To Pivotal Area

APPEARS AT EXPOSITION

Many Cities Request That Executive Make Stops

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(UP)—President Roosevelt begins a "non-political" tour into the pivotal states of Pennsylvania, Ohio and New York today where he will inspect the scenes of recent disastrous floods, and make two or three speeches.

He will be on the road until late Saturday night, when his special train arrives in Hyde Park, N. Y. There he will live in the summer White House for a week.

Arrangements of all details were not completed until last night. Mr. Roosevelt will travel through the populous industrial regions of Pennsylvania, particularly the mine areas, and the normally Republican southern tier of New York state.

Short Talk Planned

Two speeches have been booked. Friday he will speak briefly at the Great Lakes Exposition in Cleveland. At Chautauque, N. Y., Friday he will speak on foreign affairs.

The Chautauque speech is expected to be a major one. Mr. Roosevelt is expected not only to reaffirm the policy of non-interference in the internal affairs of other nations but also to define again the cardinal points of his good neighbor policy.

Along his line of travel that

weaves in and out of Pennsylvania and New York, it was assumed that Mr. Roosevelt would make platform appearances. He is being besieged with requests that he say a few words here and there but because of the primary purpose of the trip is to confer with officials on flood control and inspect flood damage, they will be held to a minimum.

In spite of White House insistence that there is no political significance to the tour, observers pointed to the territory he is invading as an argument that he cannot disregard that he is in the midst of a campaign for reelection.

Mr. Roosevelt on departing from Washington at 10 a. m., EST, will go first to Johnstown, Pa., scene of a disastrous flood last spring. There he will detain and board an automobile for an inspection trip south to Scalp Level, returning via Ferndale.

After dinner on the train at Johnstown he will confer with representatives of federal and state agencies on flood control and allied problems.

Departing from Johnstown, the Roosevelt special will go to Cleveland. He will lunch at the fair grounds and in the afternoon board his train for Mayville, N. Y., four miles from Chautauque.
